$30,000,000 Drouth Damage Estimated in State

SOLONS REQUEST QUICK FEDERAL AID FOR HARD-HIT AREA

Shows Here Afforded Little Relief to Parched Fields; Carolinas, Alabama Also Stricken as Crops Wilt Under Sun.

25 PER CENT STAND OF COTTON IS SEEN

Territory From Dublin North Suffering Most; Heavy Rain in Few Days Will Give Partial Relief.

56TH DAY OF DROUTH DAWNS IN CITY TODAY

Partly cloudy skies and showers will bring a 10-degree drop in temperatures to Atlanta today, as the city and north Georgia enter the 56th day of drouth.

The scattered rains which fell last night in Atlanta and surrounding Georgia rural areas were of no real benefit to parched crops and actually did more harm than good, causing the top soil.

Yesterday temperatures climbed from 65 degrees in the morning to 90 degrees in the afternoon, but today, according to George W. Minding, chief forecaster of the weather bureau, the range of temperatures will be between 66 and 86 degrees.

Atlanta and north Georgia have had only 18 of an inch of rain since April 7. There was a .12 inch fall about the middle of April; only .06 of an inch in May and there has been none since June 1.

North Georgia's 56th day of drouth today finds the state facing a $30,000,000 crop damage, it was announced yesterday by Harry Brown, director of the extension service of the state department of agriculture.

"It is difficult, of course, to compute in round numbers the actual monetary loss that the farmers are facing," said Brown, "but surveys we have made convince me that Georgia's loss will be in the neighborhood of $30,000,000."

Draw a line across the state at Dublin, said Brown, and from that point northward, farmers have about 25 per cent of their stand of cotton. Other crops are suffering similarly. Brown added, and all will total an amazing figure of loss for the farmers. Complete failure of crops in some counties of central Georgia was indicated yesterday by United States Weather Bureau reports.

Heavy Rain Would Help.

"The farmers' only hope for partial relief from this loss is a heavy rain within the next few days," said Brown. "South of that line at Dublin, conditions may be described generously as fairly good. They have had some rain down there, but they need more."

The forecast issued late last night from the weather bureau of the local station of the United States Weather Bureau

Cantonese Launch Civil War With Blow at North China

Nanking Masses 13 Divisions and Air Squadron as Force of 250,000 Strikes From South; Lightning Thrust Takes Hunan.

SHANGHAI, June 4.—(Wednes-day)—A huge Canton army was reported by Japanese sources today to have struck swiftly at cities, affiliated with the Nanking national government, launching civil war.

A force of 250,000 men, these quarters said, "moving with lightning rapidity, entered Hunan province (of the Nanking government) without opposition, the Hunanese apparently having withdrawn."

The Nanking government, these reports continued, has massed 13 divisions and a squadron of 20 bombing planes to hurl back the attack from the south. Southern cities were preparing defenses against the expected air raids, it was said.

The developments followed by less than 24 hours a Canton, or South China government manifesto demanding that the national government go to war immediately against Japan.

DEAN DESCRIBES TERROR SLAYING

Black Legion 'Executioner' Bares 'Duty' in Fatal Assault on Charles Poole

DETROIT, June 3.—(AP)—Blind obedience alone to the point of murder was required by the Black Legion from its members, the confessed executioner for the hooded band testified in court today as 12 co-defendants on murder charges and a silent but intent audience looked on.

Waving aside the shouted objection of his attorney and ignoring the hostile gaze of his fellow defendants, Dayton Dean testified that he shot and killed Charles A. Poole, young WPA worker, last May 12 at the end of a "one-way ride," because it was expected of him after "Colonel" Harvey Davis, another defendant, had "got the thing up"—the slaying of Poole.

Dean was the least disturbed of the many persons in common pleas court as he related the story, already told in detail in confessions from several of those under arrest, of arrangements for Poole's "punishment," and its final execution.

Known as Black Legion.

In Washington, late in the day, Attorney General Cummings said he had known about the Black Legion for some time, but had not found any federal law being violated by the organization "either then or now."

The attorney general said Duncan C. McCreary, Wayne county prosecutor, has not yet furnished to the Justice Department here any evidence of violation of federal laws in the Black Legion's activities in Michigan.

He avoided replying to a question as to whether the federal government would investigate if it were shown that a man had been taken from Detroit to a Canadian island and hanged.

Of the actual slaying, Dean said he pumped eight bullets into Poole's body from a distance of 10 feet, using two revolvers while members of his party looked on. He fired so nervously, he said, "just from nervousness."

SHORTAGE OF FOOD FACED BY FRANCE AS STRIKE WIDENS

350,000 Idle; Blum's Prospective Interior Minister Demands Communists End Labor Crisis.

PARIS, June 3.—(AP)—A raging strike fever stayed the hands of 350,000 French workers tonight and alarmed a changing government with the menace of Paris food, water and gas shortages.

Official France, swamping cabinet horses in the middle of a turbulent labor stream, saw more than 300 factories idle, many of them in the hands of "folded arms" workers.

The movement fast was gaining the appearance of a general strike. Chamber of deputies lobbies heard rumors that even the railroad workers and postmen would go out tomorrow.

From Roger Salengro, the man who will be the socialist minister of interior in the new Blum cabinet, came a demand that communists call off the strikes and order their adherents out of the plants.

"This agitation is not admissible," he declared. "The people's front must not be in a state of anarchy. The people's front stands for order."

He referred to the popular front of communists, socialists and radical-socialists which won the balance of power in the last chamber of deputies elections.

100,000 Are Idle.

Tonight, throughout the "red belt" of factory suburbs that rings Paris, police guarded factories where more than 100,000 strikers slept on their work benches—men, women and children.

Bakers, plumbers and even waiters in the big cafes of Paris threatened to join the strikes, which in their tenth day affected more than a dozen

Fourth Corps Area Chief of Staff Is Nominated for Promotion by F.D.R.

Colonel Lorenzo D. Gasser, fourth corps area chief of staff, has been nominated by President Roosevelt for appointment as brigadier general, according to announcement made here yesterday by General Van Horn Moseley, corps area commander.

The nomination is expected to be confirmed by the United States senate within a few days, General Moseley said.

The appointment will take well with the entire army. General Moseley said last night. "Colonel Gasser is extremely popular and known from one end of the army to the other."

"He is a remarkable officer and has had a brilliant and distinguished career," Colonel Gasser entered the service in 1908, and served during the Philippine insurrection in 1909. He was graduated with honors from both the staff college and the war college, and saw service during the Spanish-American War.

He served as assistant chief of staff of the 30th division, Greenville, S. C., in 1917, and went to France during the World War as assistant chief of staff of the third army corps, serving under General Moseley at G. H. Q.

Cobb Says: Al Smith Can Wear Two Hats

By IRVIN S. COBB.

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—The other day, in outlining the political high spots scheduled for the next four weeks, the writer failed to mention the Liberty League.

The Liberty League will not hold a convention, but will have tea on the du Pont lawn. There may be a speech, and perhaps a snappy prayer by the rector of the church of Saint Mida and Croesus, but Al Smith will positively not speak, having already learned the bitter lesson that a fellow can be as awfully bad spot to make an awfully good speech in.

And as for trying to keep a brown derby and a silk topper alternately, bouncing off a single dome—well, in the future, I predict, he'll leave that sort of thing to professional jugglers. Even so, Al Smith is better qualified than some for wearing two hats at once, having at least twice as many brains as you'd find under the average politician's headpiece.

Anyhow, he said something about taking a walking tour after the campaign warms up.

Key, Poole Political Pact For City Control Charged

Dan Bridges, Deposed Police Committee Chairman, Alleges Combine; Couch Aligned With Faction; Denials Foreseen; Detective Chief Refuses Comment.

By HERMAN D. HANCOCK.

Charges that Mayor Key and Detective A. Lamar Poole have organized "a political combine to nominate a complete administration slate in the September 2 municipal primary" were hurled yesterday by Councilman Dan Bridges, chairman of the ousted police committee of city council.

For the past several days local political circles have buzzed with reports that Key will support certain candidates in the forthcoming primary and that he will call on the people of Atlanta to send "me a council which will support economy in government."

According to reports which reached Bridges yesterday, the slate is now being prepared and some of those whom Key and Poole will support have already been designated.

Report widespread.

Among others who have heard the rumors are Aldermen I. Glover Halley,

ELLIS PARKER ARRESTED In Wendel Kidnaping

MT. HOLLY, N. J., June 3.—(AP)—Ellis Parker, chief of Burlington county detectives, was arrested tonight by New York authorities charged with kidnaping and assaulting Paul H. Wendel, former New Jersey attorney.

The fifth was Detective Louis Bornmann of the New Jersey state police. Bornmann carried the warrant. Parker stood as it was read.

Later Parker was taken before Justice of the Peace Throckmorton, in Mt. Holly, and Madden demanded heavy bail be set. Throckmorton stated he believed $500 was sufficient and this amount was furnished for Parker pending extradition proceedings.

Former President Herbert Hoover wired acceptance of an invitation to address the convention Wednesday.

Supporters of Senator William E. Borah are trying to maneuver him into a place where he can make a speech at the convention, counting on the golden-voiced oratory of the Idahoan Old Guard.

The republicans' old guard from the east, led by David Reed, of Pennsylvania; Charles D. Hilles, of New York; J. Henry Hunsback, of Connecticut; and Charles E. McNamara, of New Jersey, are among the names being put forward for support of Landon—the right to name the vice presidential nominee and the privilege of picking the next chairman of the national convention.

For the vice presidential nominee they like James W. Wadsworth, of Genesee, N. Y. He is a hard money, budget-balancing congressman, a former United States senator and a gentleman farmer. The old guard isn't sure yet whom it wants for republican national committee, but it knows whom it doesn't want—John Hamilton, Landon's campaign manager.

This fight is strictly an under-current affair and Henry P. Fletcher, the present national chairman, denied today that such a deal for support was cooking.

A well-audited report was that Ohio would throw 47 votes to the Kansas governor if his nomination seemed assured on the first ballot. Those votes are pledged to Charles E. McNamara, who will get them if Landon cannot go across on the first ballot.

Indiana for Landon.

In near by Indianapolis the republican state convention pledged its delegates to Landon.

Support came from the south, too. A bipartisan drive for higher levies on undistributed corporate profits, led by Senators Black, democrat, Alabama, and La Follette, progressive, Wisconsin, precipitated an immediate battle.

Before the chamber reached this section Senator Lewis, democrat, Illinois, the democratic whip, demanded that the measure be returned to the finance committee and tax legislation be postponed until the next congress.

Senate leaders through much of the day had held hope of passing the measure tonight, turning it over to senate and house conferees, and driving congress to adjournment by Monday night.

Asks Death of Bill.

Supporters estimate the yield at $829,000,000.

Lewis said he opposed any tax bill at this time and remarked, "We are on the eve of going to the people in the general election."

Lewis argued "the righteousness, the justice, the inequalities and the burdens of different phases of taxation can be discussed" during the election.

The new tax on surpluses, taken up as soon as Lewis concluded, is far from the form requested by President Roosevelt and equally distant from provisions passed by the house.

The bill worked out by the senate finance committee, in addition to boosting income surtaxes 1 per cent, would tax all corporation income at 15 1-2 to 18 per cent rates, undistributed corporate earnings at a flat 7 per cent, and subject corporate dividends to the 4 per cent normal income tax.

Black and La Follette moved to keep the present 12 1-2 to 15 per cent

LEE SEVERELY CUT BY TOWER WINDOW

"Earl of Pelham" Moved to Hospital After Pane Crashes Over His Head.

In a grim tussle with an unyielding window, Robert E. S. Lee, the incarcerated "Earl of Pelham," came off second best yesterday at Fulton tower.

Last night, he was under guard in Grady hospital suffering from loss of blood and cuts about the head and face. Doctors said his condition was not serious.

The window that ventilates the area about Lee's bunk in the federal prisoners' cell in Fulton tower swings on rods in the center. When the lower half of the window is pushed out, the top half flips back inward, offering complete passage of air.

As temperatures rose in Atlanta yesterday afternoon, Lee felt the need of added ventilation. He shoved at the lower window. It yielded reluctantly for an inch or so. Lee, the short-tempered, swore gracefully and swung at the window with all his strength.

Crashed on Skull.

The window gave way and opened freely. The bottom half moved out and the top half crashed down on Lee's skull. The glass in the middle pane was shattered under the impact and scooped down over Lee's head to his ears. He was badly cut and blood was streaming from his wounds as other prisoners rushed to separate him from the window he was wearing like a hat.

Prisoners yelled for help: guards rushed in and within a minute or so Lee, still conscious, was assisted down the steps into the automobile of W. R. "Cap" Joyner, deputy jailer.

Joyner rushed Lee to Grady hospital and he was immediately entered into the emergency clinic. In a few moments doctors had satisfied themselves Lee was not badly injured and his only problem was the loss of blood. His weakness from the loss of blood was of such extent, however, that doctors advised he be held in the hospital overnight for observation.

Retained Consciousness.

Lee, his face scarred, scratched and bleeding, with the areas of unscarred skin blanched from his lack of blood, retained consciousness while doctors and nurses at Grady hospital attended him swiftly.

"Don't let my mother know," he said.

Cerebral Hemorrhage Follows Attack Bring- ing End Shortly After Midnight to 'Uncle Joe.'

WASHINGTON, June 4 (Thursday)—(AP)—Joseph Wellington Byrns, speaker of the house of representatives, died at 12:15 a. m. (Atlanta time) today of a heart attack followed by a cerebral hemorrhage.

Dr. George W. Calver, capital physician, announced the death of the speaker, who was 66 years old.

"Speaker Byrns suffered a heart attack at 5:30 p. m. (Atlanta time) Wednesday afternoon," the physician said.

"At 11 p. m. (Atlanta time) he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and at 12:15 a. m. (Atlanta time) he died."

Death occurred in the speaker's apartment in the Mayflower hotel. The White House was informed immediately, and the news was relayed to other officials, who were profoundly shocked.

Death Unexpected.

The death was wholly unexpected. Byrns, a Tennessee who has had a long career in congress, had been almost up to the last in the tremendous task of trying to clean up pending legislation and adjourn congress by this week-end.

Friends believed the strain of this task may have been at least partly responsible for his sudden passing. Representative Snell, republican, New York, was one of the first to comment. "I am shocked beyond all imagination," he said. "It is a terrible thing. It is an almost irreparable loss."

Inasmuch as "Uncle Joe," as he was known to many intimates, was known as a master parliamentarian, adept at straightening out snarl and keeping house tempers within bounds, his death cast the prospects for adjournment of congress in a gloomy light.

German Air Leader Killed in Plane Crash

DRESDEN, Germany, June 3.—(AP) Lieutenant General Walter Wever, 50, chief of staff of the German air force, was killed in an airplane crash today at Dresden airport.

The mechanic occupant of the plane, Mechanic Sergeant Kraus, also was killed.

Wever was piloting the plane of the air ministry on an inspection trip. The accident happened immediately after the takeoff.

Governor Talmadge May Take Part In Republican Coalition Movement

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.—(Special)—The insistence of The Herald-Tribune of New York, leading republican newspaper of the country, that the Cleveland convention of the party nominate a recalcitrant democrat for vice president is taken here as indicating that the party is in even a more desperate condition than the public generally believes.

An interesting turn, however, is given The Herald-Tribune's editorial in the gossip here that Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia may figure as a possibility in connection with the suggestion that the Cleveland convention nominate as vice president a leader of the anti-Roosevelt democrats.

It may take this direction but what is more probable, Governor Talmadge may be given to understand that in the event of republican success he will be named as a member of the cabinet as secretary of agriculture. It is known that above all things Talmadge yearns to be secretary of agriculture and that nothing would please him more than to fill that position.

It is said that several of those prominent in the Liberty League, who were actively identified with Governor Talmadge in financing the ill-fated "grass roots convention" at Macon, have in mind the presentation of the name of Governor Talmadge in this connection.

The Herald-Tribune's contention that the party can only be saved by a combination with recalcitrant democrats lends force to the suggestion that Talmadge may cooperate with the movement as a logical step to his bit-

4-H CLUB MEMBERS WIN TRIP TO CAPITAL

Outstanding Leaders in Georgia Named To Attend National Session.

ATHENS, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—Free trips to Washington await Cornelia Phillips, of Soperton; Edwena Langley, of Cairo; Reyno Tyre, of Screven; and Earnest Pace Jr., of Eastman, because of their outstanding 4-H Club work in Georgia.

Officials studied the achievement records of nearly 55,000 boys and girls in selecting the winners. The four will attend the national 4-H Club camp in Washington, accompanied by two workers from the state agricultural extension service.

"It is surprising what you can make out of small scraps," said Edwena Langley, who carried out projects in sewing, cooking, health, and other home-making lines since she became a club member four years ago.

She canned 648 jars of produce from her garden, in which grew a tomato weighing one pound and 12 ounces.

Cornelia Phillips is president of the Troutman County 4-H Club council and has represented her district of the state in the state style review for the last two years.

Earnest Pace has been in club work two years. The first year he raised a dairy calf, and last year he had a beef calf and 21-2 acres of corn as his main projects. His calf won grand championship in the club show at the Southeastern Fair in Atlanta last year. Pace is now treasurer of the state 4-H Club council.

Reyno Tyre started in 4-H Club work in 1929 with a pig. He raised the pig and sold it for $21. "That was a lot of money for me," he said.

He added an acre of cotton to his list of club projects and in 1934 made a bale of cotton on the acre. He loaned the money brought by the cotton to his sister for college expenses.

Tyre is now president of his county 4-H Club council for the second year.

GEORGE INDORSEMENT GIVEN MISS MATTHEWS

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, announced today he had endorsed Miss Annabel Matthews, of Gainesville, Ga., for reappointment to the board of tax appeals.

Some members of the Georgia delegation suggested the appointment of Representative B. T. Castellow, of Culbert, who is retiring from Congress after this term. Castellow said, however, he was not an applicant for the post.

Confederate President Is Honored at Irwinville

TILTON OFFICIAL IS FOUND SLAIN

Shotgun Is Found Beside Body of Postmaster J. S. Parker.

DALTON, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—J. S. (Scott) Parker, 71, postmaster at Tilton, Ga., was found dead early today in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Oakland Bowen, near Resaca. A shotgun lay near the body.

Parker had been postmaster and justice of the peace at Tilton for several years. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Tilton.

In addition to his daughter he is survived by three sons, Grady Parker, of Akron, Ohio; Fred, Tilton, and Herbert Parker, of Dalton, and another daughter, Mrs. Winnie Goswick, of Dalton.

Jefferson Davis Monument Unveiled And Park Dedicated at Irwinville

IRWINVILLE, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—A crowd estimated at 1,500 gathered here today to unveil a monument and dedicate a park in memory of Jefferson Davis, only president of the Confederacy.

Officials of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Governor Talmadge, two Confederate veterans and leading citizens of this section took part in the ceremonies held in Jefferson Davis park.

"States' rights," said Governor Talmadge, "the sovereignty of states, championed by the south under the leadership of Jefferson Davis, is again the great issue in America today, both north and south, and will be settled, not with guns and swords, but by the prayers, the ballots and the parliament of her citizens."

"Perhaps few lives have been more dramatic than that of Jefferson Davis. Marked for hostile attack, both expected and unexpected, with ambitions shattered and patriotism thwarted; held in prison. Untried and under indictment for years, he lived to survive the friends he had known and cherished in the period of his eminence and power.

"I want to commend the United Daughters of the Confederacy for their untiring efforts in securing an appropriation from the legislature for a marker to the honor of Jefferson Davis to be placed in the county where Jeff Davis, president of the Confederacy, was captured."

May his life be an example to the generation of young men to carry the burdens of America in the future.

"Jefferson Davis was the leader of 11 Confederate commonwealths. He had organized and led against overwhelming odds for four years a resistance which achieved great victories, and compelled the admiration of the civilized world for the genius of its captain and the valor and self-sacrifice of its citizen soldiers, who fought for the vindication of what he and they believed to be the rights of the sovereign and independent states under the federal constitution, which the states had created and adopted."

Brigadier General Robert J. Travis, of Savannah, said at last the nation is coming to "recognize Davis as a great leader, statesman, soldier and a Christian gentleman without stain."

"Davis resigned the office of United States senator," said General Travis, "for principle. Today office-holders are ready to sacrifice the constitution to hold office, and seek pleasure of the majority without regard for the cost to the nation."

"Davis was a great leader of a great people, as brave in defeat as in battle."

General Travis asserted those "who whimper and cry for doles are not true sons of Confederate heroes."

He said the monument should stand as a reminder of the sturdy reliance which he said Davis typified.

"That spirit is needed more today than ever before and must not be lost. No cure-all can substitute for character and individual initiative."

The monument was erected on the spot where Davis was captured by federal troops at the close of the War Between the States. Erection of the monument was sponsored by the Ocala chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

RUSSELL SEEKS TAX ON BURLAP AND JUTE

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia, today asked the upper chamber to adopt his proposed amendment to the tax bill providing for a tax of 1 1/2 cents per pound on jute and 2 1/2 cents a pound on burlap, two of the principal competing fibers to cotton.

The proposed tax would be in addition to the present tariff on burlap, but there is no import duty on raw jute.

Senator Russell said he favored a much higher tax on both products, but purposely reduced the proposed levy to a minimum in an effort to gain support enough to effect passage.

GEORGIA LIONS OPEN CONVENTION IN MACON

Stallings Says This State Leads Nation in New Clubs Formed.

MACON, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—Vincent C. Hassell, Omaha, Neb., told Georgia Lions in state convention here today that he attributed the "phenomenal growth of Lionism to man's innate desire to be of service to his community."

"For the last half-dozen years or so, the man has been going at a rapid rate chasing rainbows," declared the speaker, who is immediate past Lion International president and who is representing the national headquarters at the Georgia convention. The session opened last night.

"Suddenly, man realized he was running around in circles, and began to long for a return to a normal manner of living. When he found that was what he wanted there came the desire then to be of service to his fellow man and to seek an outlet for service. In Lionism, he found that outlet, and that, in my opinion, accounts for the phenomenal growth of the organization has had in the past year or two," Mr. Hassell continued.

In his annual address, H. A. Stallings, Waycross, district governor, said Georgia again led all districts last year in the international field in sponsorship of new clubs and is leading this year also. Ten clubs were discontinued last year with 17 new ones being formed. For the first time the district governor has visited all of the clubs in the state during the year.

Several hundred Lions and their wives had already registered and many more were expected. Broke George, general chairman of the convention, said Henry Koplin, president of the local club, opened the convention, which will continue through lunch tomorrow. Joe Popper gave the welcome to which Wade H. Wright, Atlanta, responded.

PUBLIC DEMAND SEEN FOR CLEANER CITIES

Air-Conditioning, Shorter Working Hours Said Factor in Future.

Picture in Page 8. Shorter working hours and air-conditioned buildings will direct public attention to the imperative need for smoke abatement, it was predicted yesterday by James W. Lee, Atlanta Gas Company official, before the delegates attending the convention here of the Smoke Prevention Association of America.

Addresses telling how industries, railroads and power plants may aid in making cities more healthy were delivered by experts in their various fields at the sessions yesterday. The delegates this morning will hear additional addresses on pertinent problems facing the organization, with the keynote speech to be delivered at 10 o'clock by John D. Battle, of Washington, D. C., executive secretary of the National Coal Association.

Workers' Reaction. "People working in offices where even the drops of moisture are measured and where every dust particle is carefully picked out of the air, are going to demand greater cleanliness of the air in which they pass from work to their air-conditioned homes," Lee predicted. "Working hours have been shortened and the public is going to demand its rightful volume of sunshine in which to play during these added hours of leisure."

Speaking at yesterday's sessions were R. G. Johnson, of a Chicago combustion institute; Robert Collett, fuel agent for a railroad; G. C. Ritchie, fuel engineer for a railway; Thomas E. Shaughnessy, engineer for a coal concern, and Ralph G. Johansen, head of a combustion school. Reviewing combustion problems of firemen, Johansen said:

"Often the fuel cost in a power or heating plant can be slashed as much as 25 to 40 per cent by applying the simple phases of combustion to the burning of the fuel and the condition of the plant. There is money in the boiler room. The average plant the cost of fuel ranges from 15 to 25 per cent of the pay roll cost. The unfortunate part is that most consumers know little about power or heating plant efficiency."

Human Element. Fuel economy and smoke abatement as regards railroads were described by Collett, who declared that the "best fuel economy device ever placed on a locomotive is a first-class engine crew working together in a real partnership."

"Conditions making for proper use of fuel and the absence of dense smoke from locomotives are good engines, properly equipped and maintained; a uniform grade of fuel, and a first-class job of operation," he stated. "Any discussion of fuel performance would be very incomplete, indeed, if it did not mention the splendid contribution the coal people have made in the preparation of the product."

Sessions of the convention are being held at the Ansley hotel, and a varied entertainment program has been arranged for the delegates and their wives by Mrs. Walter N. Gallaher, wife of the president of the Atlanta Smoke Abatement League, and her special committee.

Governing Committee. Members of the governing committees of the association were announced last night. The standards committee will be composed of Frank A. Chambers, of Chicago, chairman; George R. Topp, Indianapolis; William Culbert, Nashville; H. K. Kugel, Washington; William E. Christy, Jersey City; W. E. E. Koepfer, Bluefield, W. Va.; Glenn N. Jewell, Grand Rapids; Julius Billeter, Salt Lake City; G. G. Ritchie, H. Richmond; H. B. Miller, Pittsburgh; Charles J. McCabe, Detroit; Frank E. Trumble, Buffalo; Reinhardt Kunz, Milwaukee; J. O. Bryan, St. Louis, national president; Andrew Jones, Atlanta; Gordon C. Rowe, Cincinnati; William B. Schaum, Newark; Michael C. O'Neill, Boston, and Frank H. Lamping, Cincinnati.

Members of the public service committee are Lamping, chairman; Koepfer, Chambers, Culbert, John H. Hodges and Ritchie.

MRS. W. F. WOODLIFF PASSES AT RESIDENCE. Mrs. W. F. Woodliff, member of a pioneer Hall county family, and the widow of the late W. F. Woodliff, traveling representative for The Constitution for 20 years, died yesterday at her residence, 306 Whitelock avenue, N. E. She was 76.

Widely known in Atlanta, Mrs. Woodliff for many years was a leading figure in the Pentecostal church. Her husband was a member of the Georgia and neighboring states and traveled for The Constitution from 1889 to 1909 when he was retired. He has been dead a number of years.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, with Dr. J. L. Harrison and the Rev. Paul Barth officiating.

Burial will be in Decatur cemetery.

J. ALLEN COUCH TRIAL SCHEDULED JUNE 10. Trial of J. Allen Couch, city councilman, on charges of assault and battery and public indecency, is scheduled for June 10 in Fulton criminal court.

The councilman was arrested on Piedmont avenue at Tenth street by a city policeman and subsequently was fined in recorder's court for drunkenness. Witnesses the other charges were sworn out in criminal court later.

A defense fund for Couch, who was a member of the city council at the time of his arrest, is being raised by private subscriptions among members of the Atlanta police department, it was said. Couch's arrest instigated the new among police committee members which ended in all being displaced and another safety committee appointed by Mayor Key.

STATE WILL CHANGE CIGARET STAMPS. Revenue Commissioner A. L. Crowe, in charge of the cigar and cigarette tax division, announced yesterday that the state will inaugurate the use of a new type of stamp on cigarettes by which he hopes to eliminate the "repeating" by dealers.

The new type of stamp cannot be used a second time, Crowe said. "It has been adopted in 17 of the 23 states using cigarette taxes."

The revenue commissioner estimated that the state has been cheated out of thousands of dollars through the use of the tax stamps two and three times by dealers.

'WILL COX' SIGNATURE SAID TO BE MELTON'S

Patrolman Accused by Expert at Trial for Larceny of Auto.

Testimony that Patrolman J. S. Melton wrote the signature of "Will Cox" to two auto license applications and on a bill of sale, was offered in Fulton superior court by a handwriting expert yesterday as the officer's trial on charges of larceny of a car, receiving stolen goods, and five counts involving changed motor numbers and false registration ended its second day.

The expert, John B. Winn, of the county bureau of identification, testified for the state that all the signatures of "Will Cox" and the writing of Patrolman Melton were practically identical and that they, "without doubt," were written by the same hand.

The policeman, now under suspension, is charged with stealing an automobile belonging to a representative of a New York publishing house in 1935. The machine was found in Melton's garage by Fulton and DeKalb county police several months ago.

Melton stated that he had taken the car as collateral on a $200 loan he said he made to a Will Cox, of 1064 Piedmont avenue, who, he said,

Old Man Summer Wins First Courtroom Bout

Old Man Summer won his first victory yesterday in Fulton superior court.

During the long trial of Patrolman J. S. Melton, on charges involving a stolen automobile, Judge E. E. Fomroy allowed lawyers and jury members to remove their coats in the courtroom, where the utmost dignity and decorum usually reigns.

was employed at Sears, Roebuck & Company.

Yesterday Solicitor General John A. Boykin and Assistant Solicitor E. E. Andrews introduced testimony from M. L. Thruway, owner of the Piedmont apartment, that no Will Cox had ever lived there, and a representative of the mail order house swore no one by that name had been employed by his company.

J. T. Dailey, chief of DeKalb county police, described finding the car in Melton's garage, which is in Atlanta city limits but in DeKalb county. He said Melton produced the bill of sale, admitted that he wrote the body of the paper but declared that Will Cox signed it. The patrolman told him, Dailey said, that Cox had paid back $100 in four equal payments and had written from Miami, Fla., that he expected soon to return and pay the remainder. This was why he had registered the car in Cox's name, the patrolman told the chief.

State witnesses were cross-examined at length by William Schley Howard and Paul Carpenter, defense lawyers, who said they will call 80 defense witnesses. Judge E. E. Fomroy, presiding, recessed court until this morning while the state was still introducing evidence.

GEORGIA URBAN GROUP TO HOLD CONFERENCES

Series of District Gatherings Opens With Meeting Here
Tomorrow.

The Georgia Municipal Association will hold a series of conferences this month in congressional districts throughout the state, to consider legislation and federal programs affecting municipalities, with the first conference to be held in Atlanta tomorrow night, it was announced yesterday by Zach Arnold, of Fort Gaines, executive secretary of the organization.

Composed of official representatives from virtually every city and town in the state, the association will conduct meetings to which mayors, councilmen, commissioners and all city officials will be invited to hear addresses on pertinent municipal problems.

The dates and places for holding meetings in congressional districts were announced by Arnold yesterday.

City officials in the fifth district will meet at 7 o'clock tomorrow night at the Atlanta address where they will be made by former Governor John M. Slaton, T. J. Durrett, director of the fifth district Works Progress Administration, and T. P. Saffold, of Athens.

Mayor Key will welcome the representatives and Mayor Scott Candler, of Decatur, will respond. Mayor E. D. Barrett, of College Park, will preside.

Former Governor Slaton, in his address, will oppose the tax limitation act amendment, while Mr. Saffold will speak in its defense. Mr. Durrett will explain the relationship between various federal programs and municipalities.

Conferences are being held preparatory to the annual convention of the association, which will convene here July 16.

The second conference will be held next Tuesday at Camilla. Others will be conducted at Americus, June 12; Statesboro, June 16; Homersville, June 19; Macon, June 23; Rome, June 26; Buford, June 30; Athens, July 3, and Griffin, July 7.

FALLING WIRE DELAYS STREET CAR TRAFFIC

Street car traffic on Beecher street, near Cascade avenue, S. W., was delayed several minutes at about 10:15 o'clock yesterday when an overhead wire, carrying several hundred volts, fell across the rails a few feet in front of a Whitehall-Beecher car.

A. N. Smith, motorman, halted the car when the wire fell. It was removed and a new wire installed. Power company men said a traffic signal wire burned the overhead, or trolley wire.

Tech High Boy Rescues Girl in Piedmont Lake

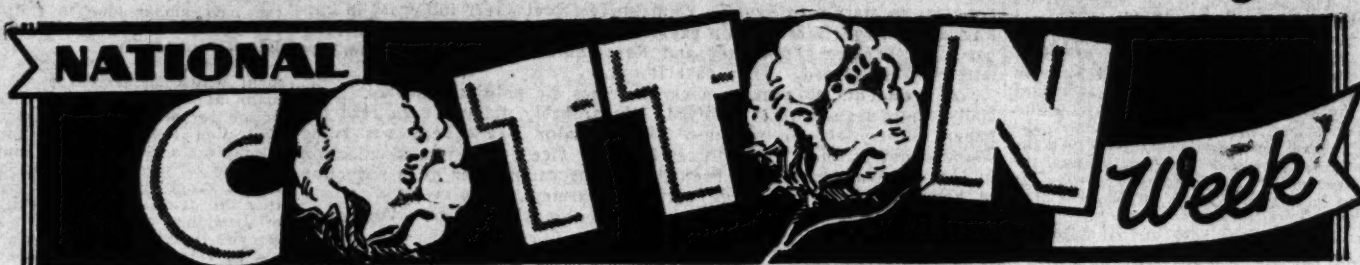

The rescue of an 11-year-old girl who had stepped beyond her depth in Piedmont lake at about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon was revealed yesterday.

The hero of the rescue was Bob McCoy, 17, of 1176 Boulevard, N. E., a junior at Tech High school and a member of the school's track and golf teams, who dove into the lake fully clothed and brought to safety Caroline Fester, of 96 Linden avenue, N. E.

McCoy was sitting on a bench in Piedmont park when he noticed the girl's distress. She had ventured into the lake from the children's pool. Before lifeguards went to her aid, McCoy, without waiting to remove clothes or shoes, went into the water.

The girl suffered no ill effects and a few minutes' rest completely revived her. McCoy moved his bench into the sunshine and dried out his drenched clothing, modestly discounting the heroism of the rescue.

"THE MOTE AND THE BEAM"

Shocking disclosures of the so-called "Black Legion" in Michigan and neighboring states have served one purpose. It is the old story of the "mote and the beam."

They have turned the spotlight of the critics who stigmatize the south because of an occasional lynching, to this vicious organization founded on rule by terror and murder.

There has been no evidence in the investigation which would indicate the legion has successfully invaded Dixie. It augurs favorably for the south and for southern conditions generally that this organization, claiming a large membership, was not able to extend its efforts at a terroristic dictatorship into the southern states.

Lynchings are by no means confined to the south, which has seen a steady decline in this flouting of the due processes of law. The south is accustomed in its everyday life and in its thinking to the suppression of the mob spirit.

Such organizations as the "Black Legion" do not find a ready foothold here despite the effort in some other sections to place the headquarters of lynch law in the south.

That one man is dead in Michigan and that enough evidence has been obtained to arrest alleged members of the organization and charge them with murder, proves beyond doubt that an iniquitous system of outlawry exists in Michigan and perhaps in neighboring states.

Yet those who have followed the developments must believe the original claims of more than a million members and a wide organization were exaggerated.

It serves to illustrate the efforts at anarchy which may be furthered by small secret groups of subversive tendencies. And this "legion" has aroused the public to a demand for investigation of all such groups and their policies.

That the south is free of any relationship with this and other such subversive organizations is a source of gratification.

GETTING THE FACTS

If there was ever any doubt that the Townsend old-age pension program had developed from an impossible Utopian idea into a money-grabbing racket that doubt was dissipated when Charles E. Hawkes, resigned state area manager for Massachusetts, told the congressional investigating committee that: "I believe most emphatically in the pension plan, but the movement has fallen into the hands of people who are interested in making money instead of the pension ideal."

Hawkes refused to obey a command of Dr. Townsend that he should not appear before the committee, saying that he thought Townsend was being advised to violate a federal law, and that "I thought more of my family and my country than to do that." His statement that the movement badly needs reorganization if it is to endure, is an indication that the entire scheme is headed toward the rocks, and it was developed in recent testimony that the receipts had dropped from around $120,000 a month to something like $60,000 per month.

Frank L. McWade, until recently Rochester, N. Y., area manager, told the committee "the organization is now in the hands of racketeers, and if Dr. Townsend wasn't mixed up with these racketeers, then he would not have walked out on the committee and refused to testify."

Testimony by Robert E. Clements, resigned co-founder of the movement, and Rev. Alfred J.
Wright, Cleveland member of the board of directors, disclosed that the Townsend bank balance had dwindled from about $160,000 on April 1 to approximately $50,000.

Another recent development was the announcement from Philadelphia that Dr. Townsend and Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, who achieved distinction as a lieutenant in the late Huey Long's "share-the-wealth" movement, had formed a coalition of the two programs and would "present a common front against the dictatorship in Washington."

Indications are that by next November the alleged racketeers in the organization will have carried it into the limbo of other discarded Utopian schemes.

HEARS THE DEATH RATTLE

Our old republican friend, the Herald-Tribune of New York, older, as it says, "by 13 years than the republican party," is in distress. It hears the death rattle of the party which it has valiantly supported all these years, not only as its chief spokesman, but as its oracle.

Confronted with certain disolution of the party under existing conditions, it now calls for the formation of a new republican party
"out of free soilers, whigs, and democrats." In addition, it demands the adoption of a liberal platform by the Cleveland convention and in order to attract recalcitrant democrats who are not in love with the Roosevelt administration it urges the Cleveland convention to nominate a democrat for vice president.

All of which is, in effect, an admission that the Herald-Tribune's party is in its death throes.

In a desperate resort to save it, the Herald-Tribune would bring about a merger of the various elements not now supporting the administration—everything from Hoover and Hilles to Borah and Vandenberg, and perhaps all down the list to Townsend and Zioncheck, not overlooking the communists and the rabid socialists who would disrupt the very fundamentals on which the government rests.

It is all interesting, but impossible. To attempt to materialize any such plan would be, as Henry Watterson said, "a step from the slaughter house to an open grave."

If the republican party is to liberalize itself along the line of the democratic administration, then the democrats who are now dissatisfied would much prefer to remain in their own party. They would not take the bait of the nomination of one of the dissatisfied elements of the party as a kite to the tail of the republican nominee for president.

The outbreak of the Herald-Tribune, therefore, has but one significance and that is the admission that the republican party is about to terminate its existence and that it is on the way to oblivion to join its progenitor, the whigs.

A WORTHILY BESTOWED HONOR

A well-deserved honor has been conferred upon A. Steve Nance, Atlanta labor leader, by the trustees of the Baconton school, who have named their new building the Steve Nance school.

This honor is conferred upon Mr.
Nance because of his interest in aiding in procuring federal or WPA funds to the amount of $8,000 used in the erection of the building.

Baconton is a town of approximately 500 population in Mitchell county in south Georgia, and not far removed from the Florida line.

This building, a handsome stone structure of seven rooms and an auditorium, is just another example of aid the government is extending to every section of the country. The president's campaign slogan that he would aid the "forgotten man" is being truly carried out in such projects as the Baconton school, which is probably a very much finer building than the community would otherwise have, if a new building at all, if local funds were to be raised for its erection. The erection of school buildings in many sections of the state is another proof of the success of the recovery program of President Roosevelt. In the expenditure of money for such projects, much local labor is employed, and in addition, modern school buildings are provided communities that would not otherwise get them.

Mr. Nance, who is president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, is to be congratulated upon the honor conferred upon him and the citizens of Baconton are to be complimented upon their good judgment in selecting such a worthy citizen upon whom to bestow this token of appreciation.

For awhile, Dora was under an impression that Zioncheck was the new trouble in Palestine.

Japan Moves Towards Destiny.

The storm center of world affairs has moved over from Abyssinia and Italy to the Far East, where Japanese policy is causing anxiety to the British, American, Chinese and Russian governments. Tension has increased greatly in the past weeks. The Chinese government has instructed the Chinese ambassador in Tokyo to make vigorous protest to Japan against the decision of the Japanese government to increase its forces in North China from 15,000 to 100,000 men. North China is already under virtual Japanese control, although the nominal sovereignty of the Nanking government has been retained.

The reason given by the Japanese war office for this move is the necessity to guard against "communism" and "anti-Japanese activities." The Chinese ambassador also protested to Japan against the spread of smuggling into North China, which has caused serious loss to Chinese revenues. In London the loss in value of serious currency to the British government says Reuter's diplomatic correspondent.

To avert the menace to the Chinese foreign loan service, which is secured on this revenue, consultations are now taking place between Britain and other interested powers, notably the U. S. A. and Germany.

A joint protest to Japan is a possible development, in view of the fact that representatives from Britain alone have so far proved ineffective.

Meanwhile, the tension of the liberal-Manchukuo border has been increased by another skirmish between soviet and Japanese frontier guards.

According to Moscow's version of the incident, a party of about 25 Soviet soldiers on a Russian patrol which was a mile within the soviet border.

The Russians, who numbered only five, are stated to have withdrawn without retaliation. Nor have relations between Tokyo and Moscow been sweetened by the recent outburst in the Japanese diet, by the minister for war, General Teruchi.

The minister is stated to have made a violent attack upon the soviets and to have declared that Russian armaments in the Far East are a direct threat to Japan, whose main cities are within range of the Russian bombing fleet concentrated at Siberia.

Another development which interests Britain and the U. S. A. is the announcement by the Japanese foreign minister, that Japan will never relinquish her hold over the strategically important South Pacific islands.

Legally, the mandate for her as a League mandate by the Treaty of Versailles. The terms of this mandate forbid these islands, formerly German possessions, to be fortified as naval or air bases.

There have been recurrent reports denied by the Japanese government that Japan is in violation of this prohibition has been ignored. Nevertheless, the Japanese papers now report that a high naval officer is to visit the islands in the near future.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

UNWRITTEN POSTSCRIPT

WASHINGTON, June 3.—President Roosevelt would not chide a republican for the world. It was not he who made public his letter urging congress to start with Senator Vandenberg's best sugar followers in cutting down large farm benefit payments.
It was those two democratic partisans, Senator O'Mahoney and Representative Jones, to whom the letter was addressed. They gave it out.

A president, of course, never indulges in political by-play, especially where legislation is involved. He probably did not even read the papers closely enough to know that Senator Vandenberg was being sounded out by the Landon forces for their vice presidential nomination or that Mr. Vandenberg has been the leading campaigner for a reduction of benefit payments to large corporate farmers.

Congressmen sometimes consider such things, however. Also, occasionally they forget.

Perhaps this is the reason why the White House privately sent an unwritten postscript to Messrs. O'Mahoney and Jones telling them that Mr. Roosevelt would not care how much publicity his letter received. To make doubly sure, it seems that the White House also tipped newsmen that the letter could be obtained from the two addresses, although the White House itself would never, never give out such things.

MOOD The only importance of the sly move to pull Senator Van-denberg's leg is the extent to which it reflects the inner campaign mood and adroitness of the top New Dealer. It brought echoes of laughter in White House and congressional corridors and some of the following private comments:

(A) That Mr. Roosevelt could hardly have chosen a more effective way to make known his passive opposition to large farm benefit payments.

(B) That the president has lately appeared to be in a playful and highly confident spirit.

(C) That this is the sort of thing which the republican innocents are going to be up against in the coming campaign.

PEP POLL Republicans are heartening themselves with some straw polls, the results of which are being circulated privately within their organizations.

The latest is supposed to have been conducted by "an independent and nonpartisan" source about two weeks ago. About 75,000 straw ballots are said to have been sent to voters throughout the country.

Up to May 18, the result from 13,539 returned ballots was tabulated as follows: 'Republicans 51.02 per cent, democrats 46.42 per cent. The difference was taken up by the socialist and other parties.

A second poll made among farmers only (said to be based on 22,088 personal calls) showed the following results in 30 states: Roosevelt 42.1 per cent; other democrats 3.7 per cent; republicans 46.7 per cent;
Townsend 6.4 per cent; socialists 1.1 per cent.

Few lawyers will consider such evidence convincing in view of the prejudice of the witness, but the republicans believe it, and it has pep-ped them up considerably.

TRADERS The soviets are rapidly gaining a reputation inside the world of diplomacy as the hardest traders in the business. American diplomats who tried to negotiate settlement of the czarist debts are now laughing at the British.

London had the mistaken notion that Moscow would be overjoyed to make a naval agreement with the British empire. Instead, the soviets went to London prepared for horse trading. They wanted a defensive alliance for protection against Hitler. In order to get it they are hemming and hawing with the British over their naval needs. They will not enter any agreement with London unless granted the right to parity with Japan. They also want equality with Germany.

British surprise could not be greater if the reds had asked for the crown jewels.

ZIONCHECK The accepted explanation of Zioncheck is that he has been bundling himself up against the world with Zioncheck check zippers for six months and more. Not even a congressman can stand that.

The Seattle congressman probably would have gone on indefinitely, however, if he had permitted the White House to remain outside the scope of his performance. It was the White House which furnished the inside courage for his apprehension.

This courage was handed directly via telephone to a local district commissioner and then on to the local police.

BOONDOGGLES Republican Senator Metcalf entertained the senate with "Boondoggie examples," the best being these: $14,962 to pave the bed of Wigwam brook in New Jersey; $19,000 for a gymnasium in a New Mexico village with 134 inhabitants; $62,000 to repair a community center in Vermont, but the repairs could not be expected because the community center had not yet been built.

REMINDER Mussolini must have studied timing. He has now selected June 16 for a gigantic army demonstration. It just happens to be the day when the League of Nations council meets to consider continuation of sanctions.

SILHOUETTES

BY RALPH T. JONES.

When the car's tuned up,
And you're spinning along,
And the motor hums
Like a seraph's song,
Can you tell me why,
Nine times in ten
It happens then—
Something new goes wrong?

Was He Drunk?
They are middle aged and have been married for approximately a score of years. They are a good looking couple and, presumably, enjoy a much happiness as the average. There are no children.

Recently it was the husband's birthday and the wife planned a little celebration. Just the two of them, you know.

She ordered a special dinner for that night, with all his favorite dishes and laid in a supply of his favorite cocktail and highball ingredients. They had quite a big time in their comfortable home.

But the liquor went to the husband's head and, later in the evening, he insisted on getting out the car and going for a ride. She went with him.

Then he took a notion for beer and stopped at a wayside emporium and few days ago he was in the effect of the beer, after the liquor, was stupendous.

A Petting Party.
He could still handle the car, so they drove out into the country. He found a quiet, little-used road and parked the car and went into the trees.

He turned to his wife, tentatively placed an arm over her shoulder, drew her to him and began kissing her with the enthusiasm that she had experienced in years.

As his petting continued, and accelerated, the wife said:
"Honey, don't let me see so much here.
Let's go to the apartment."

He stared at her in amazement.
"Good gosh!" he exclaimed. "I can't do that. You don't know my wife. Why, she'd snatch my head off!"

Office Pictures.
If you call on the sports editor you'll find his office walls covered with autographed pictures of well-known figures of the realm with which he deals. Fighters and wrestlers and baseball players and golf stars and other sportsmen are everywhere, and diving record holders galore.

You'll even see a photograph of two circus performers, elephants, etc., Then drop into the sanctum of the editor of the movie feature department. If the editor is feminine you'll probably see photographs of John Boles and Robert Montgomery and Robert Taylor, et al. If masculine, they'll be of Mae West and Jean Harlow and Loretta Young and the Goldwyn blondes.

I've often wondered why the elevator man doesn't cover the inside of his place of work with photographs of ascending balloons and descending parachutists. It would seem to be in keeping.

Atlanta Product.
Speaking of movie stars reminds of a special Atlanta production billed for the local theater for the week starting tomorrow.

"The First Baby" has Atlanta's newest contribution to the screen,

DEMOCRAT APPROVED ON G. O. P. TICKET

EMPORIA, Kan., June 3.—(AP)—William Allen White, who is expected to be one of the key figures in the republican coalition, dismissed discussion of placing a democrat on the party's presidential ticket with the comment "nix on coalition" as he left tonight for Cleveland.

Mr. White, a delegate at large from Kansas and an intimate of Governor Alf M. Landon, said in an interview: "In order to catch Liberty League democrats, who are obviously dissatisfied with Roosevelt, a coalition ticket would have to be tailed up with conservative, hard-shelled democrats. To catch liberal-minded progressive republicans and independents who are dissatisfied with the 'bad fat' President Roosevelt has made of the ideals, which all good Americans cherish, the head of a coalition ticket would have to be a liberal, progressive republican. "A fat chance a ticket would have it was headed by a progressive republican like Landon or Vandenberg and flying lead-tail-like with Governor Davey of Ohio, or ex-Governor Ely or ex-Governor Al Smith."

congress this week into an uncertain state.

Was Counted Upon.
The Roosevelt administration had counted heavily upon him, as often in the past, to speed its program through.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, majority leader, said:
"His death comes as a great surprise and shock to his friends, and particularly to associates in congress. His work during the session has been very difficult and trying. He was a great speaker. He had the respect, confidence and admiration of the members of both bodies. He was my personal friend and I exceedingly regret his passing."

The house and the senate were expected to recess today in respect to the late speaker, and a state funeral with high officials from President Roosevelt down doing him homage was in prospect.

Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the senator from Idaho, said:

predicted thundershowers during the night and possibly continuing today.

The forecaster said there was no indication of a heavy storm and no great relief to suffering crops is expected to result from the showers.

A scattering of rains fell last night in sections of Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama but the weather observers said it appeared unlikely this meant any great measure of relief.

Light showers, accompanied by wind and lightning, scattered the parched area here. Around Nashville, 1.5 of an inch of rain fell and Chattanooga reported rain and duststorms. Heavier rains were reported around Rome and Dalton in northern Georgia. Rain fell also at Macon.

A wind and rainstorm at Huntsville, Ala., killed a negro. A woman was killed by lightning at Dayton, Tennessee.

Crop experts said the little rain that fell around Atlanta and Nashville apparently was quickly soaked up by the thirsty vegetation and dry ground. They expressed doubt the showers did the crops much good.

With the drought entering its eighth week, southern congressmen were launching yesterday's drive to obtain quick federal aid for stricken farmers. Congress adjourns shortly and unless the relief is granted at this present session, little may be expected before the reconvening in January.

The southern representatives were called together yesterday by Representative H. F. Fulmer, of South Carolina. They decided to obtain specific information and present their plea to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Cotton buyers said yesterday that the record dry spell in the southeast might accomplish what formal crop curtailment programs had failed to do. There is still no rain in sight. The drought is approximately three and a half million bales now held by the government.

That is the average annual production of the four states hardest hit by the drought—Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas.

"No Rain in Sight."
Weary-eyed farmers hoped yesterday that rains would come soon to restore life to the dusty fields, while Chief Forecaster George W. Mindling, of the Atlanta Weather Bureau, merely repeated his daily forecast:
"There is still no rain in sight."

Weather bureau reports that complete failure of crops was facing some counties of central Georgia. It was based on reports from weather bureau correspondents all over the state. The reports from the various sections were:

North Georgia.
Alpharetta—Poor prospect for farmers in this section. No cotton up. Broomcorn—Not much cotton up; corn poor stand; things drying up. Pastures and garden vegetables a failure.

Comer—Very little cotton up to stand, many fields with none, some yet to be planted. Very little corn up and a great deal not planted. Pastures and garden vegetables a failure; vegetables burning up. No rain since April 9, and unless we get some soon all crops will be almost a failure.

Elberton—No stand of cotton; everything in poor condition, farm work at a standstill.
Hiram—Cotton and corn stands still; had after two or three plantings; pastures and garden vegetables a failure; wheat crop fair and harvest about over; oats harvest also about over but sorry crop.

Flowers Branch—No stand of cotton or corn; pastures a failure; pastures and meadows dried up.
Lafayette—Much cotton could not be planted; ground was too dry to plant; pastures failing fast; vegetables almost a failure; pastures and meadows parched.

Washington—Bad stands of both cotton and corn and a lot of land could not be planted; pastures practically dead.
Middle Georgia.

Augusta—Another week unfavorable for cotton and corn, both of which are poor and late; vegetable crops about dried up.
Caldwell—Extremely dry; little growth of vegetation possible now. Corners to be at least a total failure; pastures are dried up and corn a very poor stand. No rain in 53 days except a light sprinkle on May 2.

Fort Valley—Cotton and corn suffering on account of drought. Peaches need rain badly. Only 0.84 inch of rain since April 10.

Hampton—Cotton not over 15 or 20 per cent stand. White potatoes near failure, sweet potatoes nothing, and other vegetables practically a failure; pastures failing fast. Jackson—No rain since April 9. Stands of corn and cotton poor.

Macon—No rain in May; farm work badly delayed and crops in exceedingly bad condition, large areas not planted.
Moreland—Cotton not up in many places; farm work almost at a standstill; lots of ground not planted. Very few sweet potatoes transplanted. Sylvan—Lots of cotton not up; some have not had rain in seven weeks; pastures failing fast; truck crops extremely poor.

Waynesboro—Only scattered showers in this county the past week and some sections no rain since about April 10. In a good many places the cotton seed has never sprouted.

West Point—All crops need rain; much cotton and corn still in the ground.
South Georgia.

Americus—One light shower during week, but some parts of county no rain for several weeks; entire county still too dry. Some cotton not yet up, but what is up is now doing well.

Arabi—Corn and cotton being replanted; a few squares have appeared on cotton, but crops are late this year.

Blackshear—Crops are fast overcoming the late planting and everything looks good at this time, except the stand of sugar cane, which is poor.

Camilla—Good general rains occurred throughout this section last Thursday and Friday. Conditions around here are now fairly satisfactory.

Cuthbert—Crops are looking better now; peanuts and corn are in good condition, growing well. Sweet potatoes are being transplanted.

Hazlehurst—Cotton is fair; corn is mostly good, from knee to waist high; white potatoes turned out well; sweets are being transplanted; to tobacco, tomatoes, beans and cabbage are all making a good showing.

Hinesville—Cotton fair condition and chopping finished; corn good; tobacco only fair and truck crops still poor.

Laurens City—Favorable weather past week, but cotton, corn and tobacco late with poor stand. Pastures much improved since recent rains.

Richland—Still too dry in this section.
Rochelle—Still too dry from here northward, but farther south things have been pretty well revived by recent rains. Crops would be doing much better now if nights were not so cool.

Savannah—Recent rains have made wonderful improvement in crop conditions. Blackberries are now in market.
Valdosta—It was dry here for several weeks, but last Thursday and Friday we had big rains and these have put everything ahead. The situation is now pretty good, particularly for cotton, corn and tobacco.

Woodbine—Heavy rains here last Thursday and Friday, and we are happy to say the drought is broken, though crop conditions are still only fair.

Last Rain April 9.
Mindling said much of Georgia has had no worthwhile rain since April 9. "While complete records are not yet available," he said, "it is known that less than half an inch of rain has been measured during the last 53 days at Toocoo, Carlton Bridge, Athens, Washington, Greensboro, Atlanta, Experiment, Griffin, Macon, Montezuma and Louisville."

"The area with less than an inch during the 53 days appears to extend from the dusty fields, while Chief Forecaster George W. Mindling, of the Atlanta Weather Bureau, merely repeated his daily forecast:

PATRIOTISM OF DAVIS IS LAUDED BY TARVER

128th Anniversary of Birth of Southern Leader Is Honored by Solon.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, June 3.—The patriotism, military genius and statesmanship of Jefferson Davis was lauded today on the house floor by Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Georgia.

Speaking on the 128th anniversary of the birth of the president of the Confederacy, Judge Tarver asked his colleagues to pause for a brief moment during the closing hours of the second session of the 74th congress to pay tribute to a "gentleman of the south whose memory is entitled to equal veneration with that of other great men whose lives and accomplishments have been intertwined with crucial events in our nation's history."

He said the time allowed him was too short to enter upon an extended discussion of Davis' life and character, but that for those who desired to be fair, whether from the north or the south, it was sufficient to state his great ability, the purity of his purposes and the nobility of his mind and heart, to stamp him a great man.

Fidelity Unquestioned.
"If there still are those in this modern day, more than 70 years after the end of the war between the States, who cannot lay aside the memories of the bitterness of that struggle, and be fair to those on both sides," Judge Tarver declared, "no statement that I or anyone else could make would possibly affect their mental attitude. I prefer to believe that the viewpoint of most people of other sections than the south is represented by the statement of Charles Francis Adams, made more than a quarter of a century ago, in a review of a 'Life of Jefferson Davis.' 'No fatal mistake,' said Adams, 'either of administration or strategy was made which can be fairly laid to his account. He did the best that was possible with the means that he had at command. Merely the opposing were too many and too strong for him. Of his austerity, earnestness and fidelity it seems to me there can be no more question than can be entertained of his capacity.'"

Noble Patriotism.
People of the south, said Representative Tarver, were pretty generally in accord with sentiments expressed by Senator Benjamin H. Hill, of Georgia, when he said: "I know Jefferson Davis as I know few men. I have been near him in his public duties. I have seen him by his private fireside; I have witnessed his humble Christian devotion; and I challenge the judgment of history when I say no people were ever led through the fiery struggle for liberty by a nobler, truer patriot, while the carnage of war and the trials of public life never revealed a purer and more beautiful Christian character."

Pointing out that Jefferson Davis' father, Samuel Davis, was a native of Georgia, where he served his country with distinction during the Revolutionary War, Judge Tarver said Jefferson Davis' brother, David, was the fourth president of Princeton University, making the Davis family as much northern as southern in sympathy.

After reviewing his life from the time he was born in Mississippi until

Ten-Cent Bill Yopp, Ex-Slave, Dies At Confederate Soldiers' Home

Ten-cent Bill Yopp, one of the most famous former-slave negroes of the south and the man who "lobbied" the passage of the spending money pension for Confederate veterans, died yesterday at the Confederate Soldiers' Home at the age of 87.

Ten-cent Bill Yopp won his name by his habit of charging 10 cents for any job assigned to him, whether large or small, after the war when he had been given his freedom.

A great deal of the money he earned, however, was returned for providing Christmas presents for the residents of the Soldiers' Home and in recognition of his devotion and generosity Ten-cent Bill was presented by the Confederate veterans with a gold medal in March of 1920. It was in that same year that the trustees of the home, in recognition of his services and with the approval of the veterans, awarded him a lifetime home at the Soldiers' Home.

Ten-cent Bill was born on the Yopp plantation in Laurens county, Georgia, and became the personal servant of P. M. Yopp when he was seven years old. When Yopp became Captain Yopp, of Company H of the 14th Georgia regiment, Ten-cent Bill went along with his master and remained with him throughout the war. On two occasions he nursed his master back to health after he had been wounded in battle.

Dr. Harry H. Cohen and Dave Goldwasser were named co-chairmen of the convention and will be in complete charge of details. December 17-19 were set as tentative dates for the meeting.

RELIEF MEASURE GOES TO CONFEREES TODAY

Senate Rider on Florida
Canal Faces Stiff Opposition in House.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(P)—Abandoning their threat to force through a special rule, house democratic leaders today engineered the $2,430,820,000 relief-deficiency bill into conference with the senate and thus brought it a step nearer final enactment.

House conferees, headed by Chairman Buchanan, democrat, Texas, of the appropriations committee, met immediately to study the many senate amendments upon which an agreement must be reached before the measure—one of two that must be passed before adjournment—can be sent to the White House. Conferees were expected to meet for the first time tomorrow.

Major Objection.
Some house objections to the bill apparently centered on $57,600,000 of reclamation projects. Buchanan told the rules committee this morning that the reclamation projects would not be left in the measure or in the interior department supply bill.

It was republican insistence that the house take no chances on the prospects being retained in conference that yesterday held up the measure carrying, among other things, $1,425,000,000 for relief, and threatened to delay its progress until tomorrow.

Buchanan wanted to give house conferees a free hand despite a house rule against conference acceptance of changes of a legislative character.

It was not until after the rules committee had granted a rule which the leaders had planned to force through today that the republicans agreed to Buchanan's proposal on condition he bring two of the senate amendments back for a separate house vote after the conference.

Canal Again.
These were the proposals to authorize the President to allocate an additional $10,000,000 for the Florida ship canal if a survey showed it was warranted, and the plan for using a $300,000,000 revolving fund to continue public works construction.

The house conferees were expected to stand just as solidly against the ship canal as against the reclamation projects. The appropriations committee already has gone on record against the Florida dam and other projects started with relief funds but not previously authorized by congress.

ITALIAN VISIT SEEN.

TVA PAYING WAY, LILIENTHAL SAYS

Here Is River Improvement That Pays for Itself, He Avers.

CLEVELAND, June 3.—(P)—David E. Lilienthal, director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, said today the "cost of improvement of the Tennessee river" in the TVA development "is already on its way back to the federal treasury."

Speaking before the Advertising Club, he said the figures show that this summer, when two new TVA dams are completed, there will still be a shortage of dependable power capacity in the southeast, and the TVA power will therefore find a ready market.

"This is good news to the federal taxpayer, for it means that whereas most river improvement expenditures through the country are never repaid, the cost of improvement of the Tennessee river is already on its way back to the federal treasury."

He said that in the past year "the Muscle Shoals plant has far exceeded all previous records in the amount of power produced and sold."

"Most of this power was sold to a private utility. Over $1,000,000 power was produced and utilized since the beginning of the current fiscal year, and in the coming year a conservative estimates indicates revenues of $2,000,000."

Hamel Goes to Hospital; Crackers Break Losing Streak

Our Lads Will Come Back With a Lot of Zing!

What a lot of good clean fun this life is, anyhow! For a couple of days now the customers have been proving the customers not always write—they often telephone. My poor ears are wagging like a couple of palm leaf fans on a warmish afternoon.

The lads and lassies want to know what's wrong with the Crackers. They have made a lot of suggestions such as firing and hiring.

And all over the league there is a lot of unholy glee because our nine has dropped a few ball games.

But after a close examination of the standings, my amigos, I still find the Crackers are out in front by a good, healthy margin.

There can't be anything very much wrong with a ball club which has been in front all the way and which still is sitting pretty with a lead which is fairly safe.

I was glad to have a look at those standings. Because from the way the boys were gloating here and there I feared for the worst. But no, our brave lads still are leading the pack.

Yes, sir, by the dawn's early light we may see that the flag is still there.

I do hope the boys will quiet down. Old Doc McGill has been over the patient with X-ray, stethoscope and fluoroscope. He has taken the blood count, the blood pressure, examined the tonsils and teeth.

And the patient is in good health—leading the league—and going away.

BALL PLAYERS ARE BALL PLAYERS.

Ball players are ball players.

And they think and act like ball players. And not like John Citizen, who runs puffing for his morning bus or who rides down with the Little Woman, making caustic comments on her driving.

It was inevitable the strain would tell. The club was setting winning records. And they were also sitting around on the bench with one another and living at the same hotel together and sleeping in the same Pullman car.

It was inevitable one of the boys would fall off the wagon. And just as inevitable some tempers should wear thin. And that the boys should begin to get on each other's nerves a bit.

The losing streak was a good one. The team will start back to playing normal baseball—not the wild-eyed, pop-eyed stuff which saw them skyrocket up to the peak, but good, better-than-the-other-fellow baseball which will keep them up there all the way. Injuries might keep us from another flag. But nothing else.

This team will come back in a good humor and with a lot of new zing.

There isn't much of anything wrong with the Crackers. There can't be much wrong with a ball club which is leading the league by a nice margin.

The thing to remember about ball players is they are ball players. And they will act like ball players every time.

This recent slump isn't the last one. And we'll weather the next ones just as well.

MR. KIESLING.

Mr. Barret C. Kiesling, of Hollywood, was in our midst yesterday.

Mr. Kiesling is the gentleman who introduced me to Miss Jean Harlow out at the M.-G.-M. studio some time ago at the time the young lady was at work on the picture, "Reckless."

Mr. Kiesling was the soul of courtesy, then as always.

"Miss Harlow," he said, "I would like to present a friend of mine, Mr. Ralph McGill."

I would like to relate that Miss Harlow seemed impressed. But alas, and likewise, she was not. Your correspondent, acutely conscious of the fact the clothing salesman always have a difficult time finding a suit large enough, stuttered some admiring phrase.

Miss Harlow was gracious and kind. But not at all excited. Visitors at studios are a dime a dozen.

Nevertheless, Mr. Kiesling did his very best. I always have been grateful to him.

He knows more about the movies than most men, having been at work with them for quite a span of years. And he talks entertainingly, being that sort of a person. I would say he has done the best job of making friends for movies—all movies—that has been done in a couple of decades.

"ROMEO AND JULIET."

He had a couple of yarns about the screening of a play by that promising playwright, William Shakespeare. The play is "Romeo and Juliet."

"Mr. Thalberg was talking," said Kiesling, "about Romeo. 'That part,' he said, 'is about the least dramatic male role that Shakespeare ever created. Hamlet had great drama. So did Lear. And Macbeth. But all Romeo did was make love to every girl. That's all he did, just make love.'"

"And," said Mr. Kiesling, "as Mr. Thalberg concluded, a burly electrician heaved a sigh up from his shoes and said, 'Gosh, and the man thinks there is no drama to a life like that.'"

The electrician had once been shot at by an irate husband and had fled to the peace and quiet of the movies. But he knew about the drama of love.

Irvin S. Cobb, who was on the set, declared that "Romeo and Juliet" was nothing but a Kentucky feud story all done up with romance and a balcony scene.

A very fine fellow, Mr. Kiesling. And we'll all look forward to his return visit.

Galvin's Personality Chart

Save Cracker Autographs And Learn About Players

By Jack Troy.

Jim Galvin, who alternately is first and second-string catcher for the Crackers, is the ninth in a series of players giving the fans an autograph, picture and personality sketch.

Galvin is one ball player who is not superstitious. One night at Richmond he broke a long losing streak for the home nine by dropping a black cat at home plate. The cat circled the field and then scrambled over the fence. Galvin hit three home runs that night. Richmond won.

A former professional ice hockey player, Galvin is as rugged as one might suspect. He distinguished himself as a clutch hitter in early season. He was one of the big factors in the Crackers' streak which saw them break all Southern league records for winning.

Galvin's personality chart follows:

Handwriting Analysis

By Elaine.

The signature of Jim Galvin, a catcher for the Crackers, tells exactly what he is today and why he has won the following that he has worked.

His brain works like lightning. He sticks to his job because he has learned stick-to-it-iveness. He gets plenty of new ideas, but he never tries to help him in the thing he is doing, rather than as an excuse to chase off to the moon.

His writing shows a sense of rhythm. It is a quality that has been cultivated and trained. He knows what he wants and goes about getting it, relying on his resources rather than asking help from others.

He is sincerely interested in those about him. He will, and so is entirely master of himself. He has a strong sense of square dealing and fair play. His judgment is as good as that of a country banker.

His signature shows the spirit that characterizes the man, no matter how difficult it may be.

He makes use of every trait of character he has to help, rather than to hinder him. He has been discouraged and down-hearted, but he has pushed his chin up and gone ahead.

These are the facts revealed in his signature that show how he has developed his natural possibilities.

Bobby Jones Steals Show at Baltusrol

Atlantan in Fine Form; Will Go to London in July, Also Attend Olympics.

SPRINGFIELD, N. J., June 3.—(AP)—Bobby Jones came back to Baltusrol today and on the eve of the national open golf championship stole the show.

As a finalist in the national amateur championship here in 1926, and for other obvious reasons, Jones was made an honorary member of the Baltusrol Club. So he was advised upon arriving that if he wished to play, he would, like all other members, play on the lower course. The entrants in the championship were playing on the upper.

So Bobby took his three partners, Hal Sims, the bridge expert; Clarence Budington Kelland, the writer, and Grantland Rice, the sports writer, and they moved over to the first tee and flipped a coin for partners.

By the time Jones had reached the first green several hundred were around the greens, much to the distress of Kelland and Sims, who like to play their golf in privacy.

CLOSE TO ACE.
Jones had two birdies on the first four holes, missing an ace at the first short one by only a few inches. Then at the first par five he hit a tremendous full wood shot to within 10 feet of the pin but missed the putt and was forced to take a birdie.

At this point, Mr. Sims, who drew Rice for a partner, asked Jones if he ever played bridge.

"I made it a point to play one rubber every three years," Bobby said.

"That's fine," said Sims. "I'll arrange to get even for this game." Jones, weighing 170, 12 pounds less than he weighed when he last played George Von Elm here in the finals of the amateur in 1926, was hitting the ball perfectly from the tee, but with a little ragged with his iron shots.

FIRST SINCE 1930.
Bobby is going to London on July 17. This will be his first trip to England since he won the British amateur and open there in 1930. The main object of the trip is to attend the Olympics in Germany.

The locker-room "hot tip" is Willie Hunter, the Culver City (Cal.) pro. He has been going about quiet, playing the best golf of his life. He has bet $200 on himself to win at 50-1. Maurice McCarthy, the former intercollegiate champion, is playing with a lame back and can scarcely swing the club. Jimmy Thomson, runner-up last year, has worked on his short game for an hour every day since the last open. Sam Parks, the defending champion, is probably the only player in the field hoping tonight that they cut the greens down fast. He can't putt well on slow greens and he's probably the best in the game when they're treacherous.

BRULAKER TO MEET Sharkey June 25
BOSTON, June 3.—(UP)—Phil Brulaker, punching "parson" from the Pacific coast, definitely will meet former Heavyweight Champion Jack Sharkey in a 10-round bout at Fenway park here June 25. Matchmaker Rini Valenti announced tonight.

Valenti said he had received Brulaker's signed contract during the day.

APPLING RETURNS TO LINEUP SOON; HAS HURT ANKLE

Luke Hitting .359; Has High Hopes of Making All-Star Team.

The Atlanta Constitution last night learned the cause of Luke Appling's absence from the White Sox lineup. The star shortstop, Atlanta's main contribution to major league baseball, was injured on May 28, during the Detroit series. While sliding back to first base on a close play, Luke turned his ankle and was forced to retire from the game, though not seriously injured. He expects to resume play in a few days.

Appling, considered my many to be the greatest shortstop in the majors today, is off to a fine start this year. He is sporting a batting average of .359, while fielding in his usual great style. His present ambition is to make this year's American league all-star team, his keenest disappointment of last year.

Appling, former Ogleshorpe star, was a stubborn holdout at the start of this year's training season, and did not sign his contract until his demands for an increase in this year's salary were met.

His demands seem to be well founded as he finished up last year with a batting average of .307 and a fielding mark of .958. He was third among White Sox teammates in the matter of runs batted in with 71, and drew 122 bases on balls to rank second only to Lou Gehrig, of the New York Yankees, who had 132.

BLACK CRACKERS TO PLAY TONIGHT

The league-leading Black Crackers meet the Montgomery Gray Sox tonight at 8:45 o'clock in the rubber game of their three-game series at Ponca de Leon park.

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected. Women will be admitted for only ten cents, with or without escorts. The Black Crackers are playing great ball and winning consistently. The game tonight should be an exciting one.

There will be a special section reserved for white fans, hundreds of whom are interested in the local team.

Outfielder Facing Appendix Removal

Peck Probably Lost to Champions for Rest of Year.

By Jack Troy.

Clarence (Peck) Hamel, center fielder of the Crackers and regarded as the ace ball hawk and lead-off man in the Southern league today will undergo an operation for removal of his appendix in an Atlanta hospital. The operation will not be deferred any longer, President Earl Mann announced yesterday afternoon after another talk with Hamel, who said he was not feeling any better.

Hamel was suspended for infraction of training rules and sent home from Chattanooga by Manager Eddie Moore. Arriving home, Hamel revealed he had been ill for more than a month and had been visiting Atlanta doctors regularly.

MAY BE LOST.
Hamel's decision to have his appendix removed probably means that he will be lost for the remainder of the playing season.

There is a chance he might be able to return to the club, in the event of reinstatement, which is probable, in August.

Loss of Hamel at what appears to be a "crucial" stage of the season for the Atlanta club simply means that Manager Moore will remain in the lineup until Joe Hutcherson is ready to play, which may be soon.

Hutcherson yesterday was given a thorough lung and heart examination by an X-ray specialist. Hutcherson feels much better and may be ready to play within a week or two, at the outside.

HUTCHERSON IMPROVES.
The Crackers can get another outfielder, if necessary. But it will not be necessary, if Hutcherson continues to improve.

At any rate matters pertaining to Cracker outfield problems have come to a head. Al Browne would be shifted to center field in the event of Hutcherson's return to duty. Joe would go to right.

Hamel, entering a hospital last night will undergo an operation this morning.

WARREN, GOODYEAR.

Goodyear Atco Mills will meet Warren Company tonight at 8:30 on the Warren diamond. Ladies will be admitted free.

National Open To Begin 72-Hole Whirl at Baltusrol Today

SARAZEN, SMITH AND PICARD GET PLAY IN BETTING

Julius Hughes and Two Sargent Boys Compete in Golf Classic.

Two Sargent Boys In National Open

Exactly 27 years after their father, George Sargent, professional at East Lake, won the National Open golf championship, his two sons, Harold and Alfred, will go gunning for this most treasured of American links titles, starting today at Baltusrol.

By Alan Gould.

SPRINGFIELD, N. J., June 3.—(AP)—They turned on the heat today for American golf's greatest merry-go-round, the National Open championship, which begins a three-day, 72-hole whirl tomorrow on the sun-baked links of the Baltusrol Golf Club.

Besides making seasoned veterans of the golfing wars feel right at home, especially the experts sweating in a second-floor attic "press room," the blistering heat served further to harden a course already so fast that the professional "hot shots" expect the championship record to be cracked.

Unless there is a sudden turn in the weather that was reminiscent today of the boiling-hot battles of Interlachen in 1930 and Inverness in 1931, the favorites, led by Henry Picard, Gene Sarazen and Horton Smith, top choices in the betting, are expected to give Old Man Par a shelling.

Not only do conditions appear ripe for a sub-par blast on a course not particularly hazardous, with no out-of-bounds in sight, but the professionals are more than anxious to wipe out the memory of their debacle at Oakmont last June. They are not taking anything away from Samuel McLaughlin Jr., the beneficiary of the 1935 blow-up and the defending champion here, but they expect to crown a new champion with much more flourish than was the case a year ago.

Chick Evans, the veteran Chicago amateur who set the tournament mark at 280 20 years ago at Minikahda and Sarazen, who equaled it in 1932 at Fresh Meadow, are among the competitors who anticipate a new scoring standard as the old guard of American golf battles the sharpshooters of the new generation.

Picking the winner of this championship is just as speculative as any attempt to predict the winning score. The shot-making race is wide open for a big percentage of the field of 165 places, including 34 amateurs, who represent every golfing sector of the U. S. A.

Baltusrol's par of 36-36-72 has taken a beating in practice this week but that's no tip-off on what will happen when every shot counts and the championship is on the line. Harry Cooper was taking Oakmont apart a year ago until the main firing began but this week, without any preliminary fireworks, he's among the favorites.

Picard has reeled off the best practice card—68. Johnny Revolta, the national P. G. A. titleholder, turned in his second straight 69 today. Ralph Beach, Baltimore pro, duplicated this score. There were at least a dozen others touring Baltusrol's upper course under par figures although the heat kept many on the sidelines with a cooling glass in one hand.

Sarazen and Picard reeled 8-to-1 favorites in the tournament "book" with Smith third choice at 12 to 1, and Revolta 15 to 1 but there were at least two dozen professionals eligible to be struck by the championship lightning.

Even such old guardsmen as Walter Hagen and Macdonald Smith have their hopes. The odds on Mac Smith have been cut from 40 to 20 to 1. Hagen was quoted at 30 to 1. Bobby Cruikshank, who lost a play-off to Bob Jones in 1925, was rated just as good a chance as long-hitting Jimmy Thomson, the 1935 runner-up, in 12 to 1.

Each was a 20-to-1 shot. The champion himself had no illusions about his prospects but took comfort from the fact few champions ever have repeated. This is only the fifth national open for Hagen with one victory in four previous attempts. He is batting 250 in the title league.

Only Bob Jones, who will be in the gallery tomorrow, can show a better mark.

TOPNOTCHERS.

Outside of Lawson Little, the former amateur king who failed to qualify, the field includes the country's topnotchers. Among the amateurs, Omaha's Johnny Goodman, 1933 open champion, was rated no better than a 40-to-1 shot. Michigan's Chuck Kocsis, fresh from Big Ten triumphs, loomed as one of the few slim-pure threats. A sub-par 70 also attracted attention upon Howard Tryon, Elmira (N. Y.) amateur, during the final workouts.

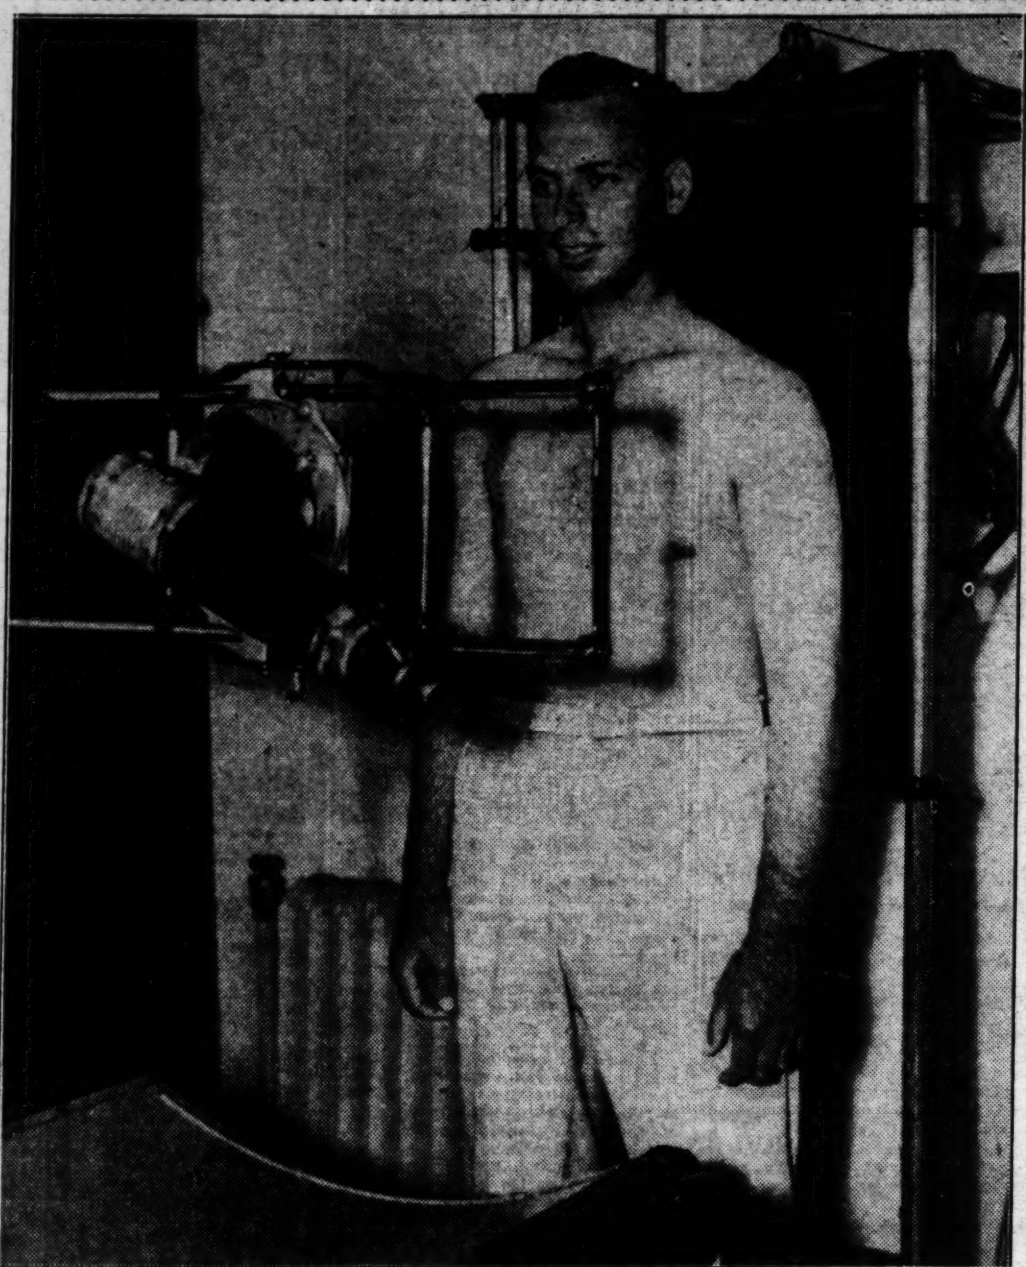

Seven withdrawals today, with only five replacements, down the field, which will play 18 holes tomorrow, another round Friday, with the low 60 and ties for 60th place competing in the 36-hole final Saturday. There was no substitute for Bill Kanter, Louisville pro, who was injured in a recent auto accident, or Harry Gandy, long-hitting Oklahoma city amateur.

Newly Discovered Hormone Helps Men Past 40

Generally around and after 40 a man's vigor becomes impaired and his vitality lessens. This is due to a lack of the hormone which is essential for the production of energy and vitality. This hormone is now available in tablet form under the trade name of "Zachry" and is available for men only. It is a powerful stimulant and is known to be of remarkable help in improving vigor and increasing vitality. Clinical tests with this hormone have produced amazing results.

Big Joe Given Thorough Examination

Big Joe Hutchison, outfielder, visited an X-ray specialist yesterday and was given a thorough examination to determine if he is physically fit to begin play for the Crackers. Hutchison is shown standing in front of the machine as he was examined. Big Joe, feeling much better, may be available within a week or two, at the outside. Hutchison has been working out daily at Ponce de Leon park.

Bitsy, Cup Mates Sail for Wimbledon

NEW YORK, June 3.—(UP)—Four members of the United States Davis cup team, eliminated from play for the international trophy this week by Australia, sailed today for Europe to compete in the Wimbledon championships later this month.

The quartet consisted of Donald Budge, Gene Mako, Wilmer Allison and Bill Johnston. Budge and Allison were the top seeds in the Davis cup, losing in the round of four to Baron Gottfried von Cramm, of Germany.

SKET TOURNEY GETS UNDER WAY HERE TOMORROW

Henry Ahlin Trophy Goes to Best Score for Entire Event.

Special features will make the southern states skeet championship the most interesting skeet event ever held in the south.

The shoot gets under way Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a 50-bird practice program scheduled at this time. The title shooting starts at 10 a. m. Saturday and continues until Saturday night.

One of the most interesting of these special features is the Henry Ahlin trophy, a handsome engraved silver dish, which will be awarded to the shooter posting the best registered score during the entire event.

The winner of this special trophy, named in honor of the secretary of the National Skeet Shooting Association, will indeed be proud of his reward, as this trophy is given over a championship test.

Another special feature that will create a great deal of interest in the team races. These races are between five-man squads representing a city or state. Atlanta will enter a five-man team, which will be selected from the first five shooters on the 100-bird race Saturday.

This system of selecting the team has proven very popular, as it places it on a competitive basis.

The junior championship will be one of the most hotly contested events of the whole shoot. Young Al Fress Jr. will be defending his titles against each star as Harry Harkins, present city and state champion; Luther McDonald, former state champion; Jack Brock, former city champion; Paul Keller, of Athens, former southern champion; Jack Boardman, of Augusta, southeastern long run title holder; and other junior entries from Miami and Atlanta.

Club officials have high hopes of a record-breaking shoot, with entries already received from a half dozen southern states.

Giants Blank Cubs As Cards Win Again

Yanks, Red Sox Win in American; Senators Climb.

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—The Yankees climbed aboard Babe Phelps today, after being beaten twice by him this season, and shelled him from the mound in chalking up an 11-to-1 win over the Chicago White Sox, to even their current series.

Two-thirds of the Yanks' Italian batting brigade, Frank Crosetti and Joe Di Maggio, led the 15-hit barrage on Phelps and his successor, Red Evans, who was called in for relief duty in the midst of the New Yorkers' sixth inning, four-run attack.

Charlie Ruffing, turning in his fifth victory of the season, for a 500 hitting average, let the White Sox down with five hits as the Yankees maintained their three-and-a-half-game edge in the American league standings.

Detroit's three-run rally in the ninth failed to match a five-run spurge by the Athletics in the eighth and the Mackmen evened the series today, 11 to 7. Goslin and Fox hit homers for the Tigers, while Pinky Higgins, A's third-sacker, got four hits in four times up.

The Senators bounced into a tie with Detroit for fourth place in the American league today by defeating the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 4, as the Tigers were losing to Philadelphia.

It was the second straight victory of the Senators over the Browns and made their record no losses and six victories against St. Louis.

Wes Ferrell added a timely single to his effective "nuthin ball" delivery today to provide the Boston Red Sox with a 6-2 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

The Cardinals held onto their three-game lead in the National league by slugging the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 3, for their fourth straight win.

Roy Parmelee, pitching for the Cards, turned in his fifth victory by allowing nine hits, but had trouble with his control, walking five and hitting two batters. The Dodgers failed to take advantage of these opportunities through poor base running, however.

Stuart Martin, the rookie from Asheville, led the attack on the Dodgers' George Earnshaw and Fred Frankhouse by smashing out a single, double and triple.

DICKLEY LEAVES.

BOSTON, June 3.—(UP)—Recovered from a kidney injury suffered eight days ago in a game with the Boston Red Sox, Catcher Bill Dickley of the New York Yankees, was discharged today from St. Elizabeth's hospital and immediately left for New York by train.

East Point defeated Marietta yesterday, 16-8. Giles held the East Pointers well in hand while his mates were pounding three Marietta hurlers for 16 runs.

Wrigley Field Jinx Broken by Terrymen in 3-0 Win.

Yanks, Red Sox Win in American; Senators Climb.

CHICAGO, June 3.—(AP)—For the first time in more than a year, the New York Giants defeated the Cubs at Wrigley field today, getting to Curt Davis in the first inning for all their runs and a 3-to-0 victory.

Hal Schumacher snapped the Giants' three-game losing streak by holding the Cubs to three hits, one each in the second, fifth and seventh. It was the lean right-hander's sixth victory against two losses.

All the game's scoring came after two were out in the first. Burgess Whitehead's single and a walk to Bill Terry made the setup easy for run-making on Hank Leiber's double, which sent Whitehead across the plate.

Gene Mancuso drove in the other two runs, scoring Terry and Leiber on a single.

Bob Reis, relief pitcher for the Boston Bees, defeated Pittsburgh's Pirates, 4 to 3, today.

He went on the mound in the eighth, relieving Danny MacFayden, removed a pinch hitter, then in the eleventh knocked out a single to break up the game.

WHITES NOW CONTROL GEORGIA G.O.P. IN FULL

Ruling Committee All-White in Membership for First Time in History.

By GLENN RAMEY,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Georgia republicans, for the first time in the party's state history, are going to the national convention at Cleveland June 9, representing an organization 100 per cent white controlled.

The recent state convention reduced the membership of the central committee, governing body in Georgia, from 110 to 55 and provided an executive committee of 15 actively to conduct its affairs.

All officers and members of the executive committee are white.

There are only five negroes on the state central committee.

In adopting this setup, the convention switched from the 12-year leadership of Josiah T. Rose to that of Clint W. Hager, of Atlanta, former United States district attorney.

Hager, as chairman of the central committee, with the other officers and executive committee, is in active control of republican affairs in Georgia.

The big committee seldom meets, preferring to act in two years, the executive committee having power to act in its stead.

Hager, who had a hard fight to defeat Rose in the Fulton county convention and in the state gathering, was chairman of the latter meetings of the executive committee, which adopted revolutionary regulations.

The convention, under Hager's rules, returned local patronage to party adherents in affected counties.

W. H. Tucker, of Dawsonville, is first vice chairman of the central committee; W. T. Kitchens, of Mitchell, is second vice chairman; Wilson Williams, of Woodbury, secretary, and J. H. Rush, of Lumber City, treasurer.

The executive committee, with the exception of the seventh district—which so far has not elected its members—follows:

E. K. Overstreet, first district; F. M. Dismuke, second district; J. H. Crumney, third district; H. O. Lovern, fourth district; L. H. Crawford, fifth district; F. H. Mosley, sixth district; T. J. Townsend, eighth district; John M. Johnson, ninth district; and W. G. Cornett, tenth district.

PRINCIPAL'S PORTRAIT PRESENTED TO SCHOOL

Students at Hoke Smith Junior High school yesterday unveiled the portrait of their principal, L. O. Kimberley, which they are presenting to the school, at morning chapel exercises. Names of the more than 1,800 students are inscribed on the back of the picture.

Mr. Kimberley has been principal of the school since it was established in 1923. At the ceremonies yesterday, Richard Kimberley and Barbara Scudder, his grandchildren, unveiled the portrait. Claude Boyd and Melvin Rosenbaum made the presentation and the picture was received officially for the school by W. S. Kelley, president of the student body.

Brief addresses were made by H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent of city schools, and Ed S. Cook, president of the board of education.

Junior Hi Honor Winner

SPRING STREET GROUP EXPANDS ORGANIZATION

"One-Man Educational System" Hit by Speakers

Caustic jabs at a "one-man educational system" were made last night by speakers at the meeting of the patrons of Spring Street school, which, because of representatives from every section in the city, was reorganized and given the name citizens' committee.

George S. Lowman, only member of the board of education, observed at the meeting and one of several speakers from the floor, declared that "the statistics in the annual report of the superintendent of city public schools, for 1934 to 1935, was the inconsequential work of a man whose department was not worth $25 a year to the city."

The meeting was called by officers of the patrons of Spring Street school to consider data compiled by committees working since the meeting of the group several months ago. Smith, vice president of the group, and general chairman of the new, stated that Spring Street school, and about 40 others in the system, placed children in basements, rooms, and other makeshift buildings and needed improved sanitation and plumbing.

"Our officers, after visiting meetings of the school board and examining grounds and committee, found that the Atlanta public school system is operated without any conception of physical betterment," he said.

"We found that conditions are due to politics within the system."

The new chairman said the organization "was against the school official, but opposed to the domination of the system by any individual opposed to educational principles."

Smith said the "schools were weighted down with expensive experiments," that it was burdened with non-essential extra-curricular activities, that a plan under way to give teachers rest periods, which would require additional teachers, will cost thousands of dollars needed to make physical improvements.

Among steps to be recommended, he said, will be severance of the principal and business departments of the school system; abolishment of nepotism; and the establishment of an advisory board composed of the principals of the four senior high schools and principals from a junior high and an elementary school, to govern the school system.

Smith said the organization, he declared, is not political.

10 to 20 Per Cent Price Increase In Produce Results From Drouth

Demand for Products Jumps Same Amount, Dealer Here Says; Irrigated Farms Benefit; Truck Crops in 50 to 100-Mile Radius Failures.

Georgia drouth conditions have forced a rise of 10 to 20 per cent in perishable products over the normal season range and the demand for produce through local produce houses is from 20 to 25 per cent more than normal, Aubrey Milam, president and treasurer of Green & Milam Produce Company, said yesterday.

No produce shipments are coming into the city from a radius of 100 miles except from small growers who have the advantage of irrigation. Milam asserted. He added that crops of north Georgia are parched and shriveled and that farms have the appearance of being "desert dust."

Although the estimate of the total increase from various sources and to various establishments could be provided, Milam said he has been informed that others engaged in the same business are getting about the same proportion of volume increase and that the shipments are bringing about the same proportionate price increase.

Local Area Supply.

"Ordinarily, at this time of the season, small truck farms within a radius of from 50 to 100 miles of Atlanta supply about all the demands for local produce," Milam said yesterday.

"Unusual weather conditions, however, have just about killed crops in this area or at least they have stopped growing. One producer said yesterday that if the rains skip Atlanta and its area for another 15 days, the entire crops will be a virtual loss."

"South Georgia has experienced a good crop on the whole, and Georgia-grown crops from that area are still coming in. On the other hand, we are having to import sweet potatoes from Alabama because of a shortage in certain sections of Georgia."

Dry Belt.

"It seems that the dry belt begins just below Americus and stretches across the state. Macon, Griffin, Hartsville, Gainesville and virtually every other rural or semi-rural community in the northern section of the state is feeling the pinch of the lack of rain."

"We have imported four carloads of green peas from California because of a shortage in Atlanta to meet the demand. That is unusual because they usually are supplied by farmers who produce their products within 100 miles of the city."

From LaFayette, Walker county, yesterday came word that if rains do not descend soon crops will be a total loss.

Dairymen Hit.

Dairymen also are experiencing difficulty in finding pastures for cattle and a real threat is seen.

R. F. Sams Jr., of Clarkston, operator of a large truck farm, many acres of which are irrigated, stated that his crops where watered artificially are in good shape, but that his truck and that of others in the neighborhood not watered, were suffering from the drouth.

He said the drouth had shown the value of irrigation where the truck grower or farmer could thus equip his land.

U. S. ROAD FUNDS ARE MADE PUBLIC

Georgia Will Get $1,220,000 for Grade-Crossing Elimination, Solon Says.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—Representative Cartwright, democrat, Oklahoma, coauthor of the $461,000,000 Hayden-Cartwright bill providing federal funds for road construction, announced today the approximate amount each state would receive for regular federal-aid highways, farm-to-market roads and grade-crossing elimination.

The states must match funds for the first two types of work. Allotments for grade crossings will be direct grants.

Congressional action on the measure was completed yesterday when the house adopted a conference report on it and sent it to the White House.

The figures prepared by Cartwright included:

State	Farm to Market	Grade Crossing	Total
Alabama	$2,800,320	$200,000	$3,000,320
Arkansas	1,653,723	330,000	1,983,723
California	1,788,222	300,000	2,088,222
Florida	1,776,939	300,000	2,076,939
Georgia	1,025,879	200,000	1,225,879
Illinois	1,105,324	400,000	1,505,324
Indiana	2,938,637	500,000	3,438,637
Iowa	1,892,896	210,000	2,102,896

Page's petition set forth that the government had claimed that and Hungerford will inherit a small amount from his wife's large estate. The husband was practically cut off by Mrs. Hungerford's will and has made efforts to break it.

REP. A. PIATT ANDREW IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 3.—(AP)—United States Representative A. Piatt Andrew, 63, republican, Massachusetts, who taught President Roosevelt economics while the President was a student at Harvard University, died today.

Physicians said arterio sclerosis was the immediate cause of death although he had been confined to his home on the tip of Eastern Point, suffering from influenza, since April 25.

Andrew was elected United States representative from the sixth Massachusetts congressional district in 1921 to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Augustus Peabody Gardner. He has held office since.

Members of Andrew's immediate family were at his bedside when he died. He was not married.

WELTNER GROUP HOLDS ORGANIZATION SESSION

Supporters of Philip Weltner's measure to unite senators and congressmen to unite against a candidate for governor held an organization meeting for the fifth congressional district last night and named Guy Holcombe, of Fulton county, temporary chairman.

The meeting authorized the leaders of the movement to name temporary executive committees for DeKalb, Fulton and Rockdale counties. These will arrange for countywide meetings to name delegates to a state-wide gathering.

The state-wide meeting has tentatively been set for July 4.

Weltner spoke at the meeting, describing progress of his movement. Other speakers included Judge Blanton of Athens, and Harry Graves, of Clarksville.

DRUID HILLS PASTOR BACK FROM SCOTLAND

Dr. William M. Elliott Jr., pastor of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church, will arrive in Atlanta tomorrow after two months' study at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland.

The minister was granted a leave of absence by the Atlanta church and was accompanied on his trip abroad by the Rev. Fred Oert, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Paducah, Ky. While Dr. Elliott was away, Dr. O. G. Jones, of Mississippi, held the pulpit at the Druid Hills church.

Dr. Elliott completed the work on his doctor of philosophy degree, which he received at the University of Edinburgh in 1928.

Congregation of the church Sunday will celebrate Dr. Elliott's first anniversary as their pastor. A special conduct both services at the church on that day.

Amato, Atlanta Opera Favorite, Here in Search of Embryo Stars

By RALPH T. JONES.

Pasquale Amato who, in the days of the glory of Metropolitan Grand Opera in Atlanta, when Caruso and Scotti and Farrar and Martinelli and Ponselle and Bori and all the others were friends to everyone in the city, was an important great singer in the fine cast that ever sang in the old auditorium, is back again in the city.

He is at the Georgian Terrace hotel, scene of so many famous events in the city's operatic history. He will be there the remainder of this week.

Amato comes this time, however, not as a singer himself, but as a selector of potentially great singers of the future. As general director and "cad of the faculty" for the Louisiana State University school of music, at Baton Rouge, he is trying to find young singers whose voices promise development into operatic quality and to whom he offers scholarships to the Louisiana institution.

Accompanied by Producer, He is accompanied by Dalton R. Raymond, producer of the operas which are given at the school during the season and the two of them will be glad to give auditions to any youthful Atlantans who believe they possess voices that might qualify them for these scholarships.

"We are trying to create something for the entire south, at Baton Rouge," said Amato yesterday. "A place where promising young singers can go and get a complete training, a place from which they can graduate with their natural gifts properly backgrounded and trained so they can step into any one of a half a dozen operatic roles, on the professional stage, at a day's notice."

Visited 25 States.

Last year Mr. Raymond traveled through 25 states seeking the proper recipients for 25 scholarships given by the school. He found them, in big cities and small towns, in country cross-roads and in the stores. And last year many of these fortunate young people sang the roles in the school's production of Carmen.

The only qualifications necessary, says Mr. Raymond, to receive a scholarship is a voice they judge to be worth training and lack of finances to pay their own way. "We want to help the poor boys and girls, the ones who, without such a scholarship, would in all probability never have the chance to develop their vocal gifts. The ones who can't afford, even to pay for vocal lessons in their home towns," he said.

It is real training for vocal young Americans and the scholarships offered bring the chance for that training to everyone with a real voice, regardless of circumstances or financial status in the social order.

For young Atlanta singers, or vocally gifted boys and girls from other Georgia towns, Amato and Mr. Raymond will be at the Georgian Terrace until Saturday. They will gladly give auditions to all who apply. All needful is to telephone them at the hotel and make an engagement.

"Last year we heard thousands," said Mr. Raymond yesterday, "and many of them were exceedingly painful. But we found 25 real voices and, even had we found only one, it would have been worth while."

YOUNG MEN 'FREED' IN VIRGINIA COURT

Quartet Convicted of Attacking, Torturing 23-Year-Old Woman.

RICHMOND, Va., June 3.—(AP)—Judge Ernest Wells, of Richmond, Virginia court, part II, ordered four young men convicted of attacking and torturing a 23-year-old woman, freed under "surveillance" and $1,000 bond each today.

Judge Wells, who sentenced the four to prison terms of five years each, with three years suspended, on May 29, said their freedom was only "temporary."

"They are only youths," he said, "and I want to try them out and see how they behave. I am merely holding imposition of sentence in abeyance."

He said he had no new evidence and that only the youth of the accused entered into his decision.

The four men, who were ordered to report to the court in three weeks, are James A. Brooks, 23; Oliver Darden, 25; Stephen Bohannon, 25, and Samuel Overly, 26.

The court said in sentencing the men last month that it was his desire to be constructive and not destructive, although, he said, the quartet was "guilty of a dastardly crime upon a girl whose character is above reproach in so far as the evidence here has shown."

From LaFayette, Walker county, yesterday came word that if rains do not descend soon crops will be a total loss.

Dairymen Hit.

Dairymen also are experiencing difficulty in finding pastures for cattle and a real threat is seen.

R. F. Sams Jr., of Clarkston, operator of a large truck farm, many acres of which are irrigated, stated that his crops where watered artificially are in good shape, but that his truck and that of others in the neighborhood not watered, were suffering from the drouth.

He said the drouth had shown the value of irrigation where the truck grower or farmer could thus equip his land.

U. S. ROAD FUNDS ARE MADE PUBLIC

Georgia Will Get $1,220,000 for Grade-Crossing Elimination, Solon Says.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—Representative Cartwright, democrat, Oklahoma, coauthor of the $461,000,000 Hayden-Cartwright bill providing federal funds for road construction, announced today the approximate amount each state would receive for regular federal-aid highways, farm-to-market roads and grade-crossing elimination.

Atlanta Family Will Establish Residence in Dallas Next Fall

By Sally Forth.

"IS IT True What They Say About Dixie?" might easily be the theme song of members of the debutante social set, for they have heard that one of their popular members, Dixie Woolford, is going to Dallas, Texas, to live. Sally, with her usual curiosity, investigated the rumor, and learned, much to her sorrow, that it is quite true. For when Dixie and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Woolford Jr., leave Atlanta, they will also leave a number of devoted friends.

The Woolfords will probably remember this summer as one of the most memorable of their lives, since it will be their last in the Gate City of the South. Mr. and Mrs. Woolford and Dixie will leave early in September to establish residence in Texas, where Mr. Woolford's business connections require his presence. The three young Woolfords, Grace, now Mrs. "Nammie" Raines; Elizabeth, now Mrs. George Marassa, of Starke, Fla.; and Dixie, a debutante of the past season, have always been popular among members of the younger social contingent, and all three are noted for their beauty and arresting personalities.

Prior to their departure, they will be extensively entertained at informal farewell social affairs, for the date of their return to Atlanta for a visit is indefinite at present. Grace and Nammie alone will remain to carry on the traditional hospitality and charm of this attractive Atlanta family.

WHEN Frances Austin gave a kitchen shower and seated tea for Marjorie Gould recently, the many attractive gifts were a surprise to Marjorie, but one special one was not only a surprise but a shock. It seems that quite a while ago, Jeanne Gould Clarke, Marjorie's sister, had a dinner party at her home on Piedmont avenue, and during the evening a contest was played. This contest concerned calories and food prices and lots of other complicated things that young people usually know very little about. Marjorie and her fiancé, Carroll Jones, were the only unmarried couple at the party, and strange to relate, they won the prize, which was a frying pan of an excellent make.

Marjorie and Carroll had no use for the prize at that time, so they presented it to Jeanne and Dan for use in their apartment. But now that the prize winners are planning to be married in just a few days, they've been trying to get the frying pan back into their custody. Jeanne and Dan have heartily refused to part with it under any circumstances, so it was with the greatest surprise and pleasure that Marjorie unwrapped the shining and coveted frying pan bearing her sister's card at Frances' party.

READING almost like a travelogue are the summer plans of Ida Thomas. Going first to New Orleans, she joined her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Keyes, who motored to the Crescent City from their Miami home.

When the trio met they first went to Texas, where they will be among the first to attend that state's widely heralded centennial. From there a detour to the Grand Canyon, then swinging south again they will find the haciendas of Mexico all their fancies painted them.

The beautiful roads along the west coast, like white ribbon streamers, will beckon the travelers next, and it will be at the larger cities bordering the Pacific that they will make more lengthy sojourns in their tour. Motoring still farther to the north, they plan to visit Alaska and then will go to Ontario, where a visit to the two-year-old Dionne "quins" will be an everlasting thrill. Lake Louise, Banff and the Canadian Rockies, the Great Lakes and then to New York will round out a trip which Sally feels would make the most seasoned traveler rather envious. Upon arriving in New York the trio will return to their respective southern homes by boat.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence should be sent to the editor, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

A correspondent who says she has always vowed she wouldn't have a word to say against any man her daughter loved and wanted to marry is ready to eat her words. The said daughter, 30 years old, has been popular. She has had one chance after another to marry desirable men, all of whom she has turned down for the most unfeasible of the lot and her mother feels that is a crime for her to sit tight-lipped and see her darling "destroy herself." Yet frankly she doubts if her protest would register, were she to make it. What shall she do?

She should content herself with the protest which her silence has already made. Words are useless. A girl in love with a man is quivering with emotion. She is so sensitive to the criticism of her family as of him. They don't have to tell her how they regard him. She sees it in the air. She reads it in their eyes. She hears it in what they do not say as well as in what they say. Their disapproval is as eloquent unexpressed as expressed only if it is not so irritating or so hard to swallow if not couched in hard words.

At thirty a girl has learned to think if she ever will. At 30 she has learned discretion, if she ever will. If she were able to control the current of her affection she would never have let it flow toward the most undesirable of her beaux. But she can't. There is no reasoning about love and no reasoning with love, or a sensible girl would not permit herself to be involved in a hopeless passion for a man whom her family despises. So when she is sold out to a second rather there is nothing the family can do but grin and bear the disappointment.

The most dutiful daughter, whose mother's every wish has been her command falls under a love spell and mother's influence is blanked out. Any effort on the parent's part to break up the love affair must end in one or two ways: either she fails and the daughter is alienated from her, or she succeeds and the daughter is consumed with bitterness. It is ticklish business for any woman to step in between a 30-year-old daughter and the man she loves.

Every protesting parent says the same thing in justification of her protest: "Of course I want my daughter to be married but I don't want her to marry a man who can't possibly make her happy." The truth is that if the man is decent and fine and clean he may make her daughter happy. But the mother can not see him with clear, dispassionate vision when he is trying to take her darling away from her. His family tree is crooked or his disposition is bad, too old or too young. He's too selfish or too stingy. He hasn't enough money saved or his prospects are poor. There is always something in the way of her complete approval. But while her approval may be necessary to every body's peace of mind, it isn't necessary to the success of the marriage, for not even a parent can predict the unpredictable which every marriage is.

It is ungrateful to a mother to sit tight-lipped and see her child take a step which she considers "self-destruction" but she only prolongs her anguish if she wages a fight to break up a marriage of a 30-year-old daughter whose mind is made up and whose right to choose her own mate is legally, morally, and sentimentally established.

The first stitch is the always popular, perhaps because it is effective and easy to make, fagoting stitch. The drawing on the direction sheet shows the way to hold the thread and needle and the direction in which to work.

Miss Dorothy Cassel Becomes Bride Of Dr. Fraser at Home Ceremony

A marriage marked by beauty and dignity and one of cordial social interest, was that of Miss Dorothy Cassel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cassel, of Decatur, to Dr. H. H. Fraser, of Bellingham, Wash., and Atlanta, which was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. J. M. Richards, of Columbia Seminary, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. The altar was arranged before the mantel in the living room, and was flanked by palms and asparagus ferns, with baskets of bride's roses and white gladioli placed in front of the graceful greenery. The piano and console held bowls of roses, gladioli and regal lilies. Mrs. Margie Griffith rendered a program of harp music.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Earl Stevens, of New York, was matron of honor and only attendant. She was gowned in a becoming frock of white crepe de chine fashioned with a "V" neckline and a short train, and introduced in the full puffed sleeves, which shaded from rose to pale pink. The skirt was full below the knees and formed a short train, and her accessories matched her gown. She wore a spray of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

The lovely young bride met her father, Henry Cassel, by whom she was given in marriage, at the foot of the stairs and they were joined at the altar by the groom. The bride's hand beauty was enhanced by her hand-woven wedding gown of closely woven

Miss Ivie Marries Louis V. Henderson

The marriage of Miss Jewell Genevieve Ivie and Louis V. Henderson took place Tuesday afternoon at the Baptist Tabernacle, with the pastor, Dr. W. H. Knight, officiating. The organist, Mrs. D. L. Wood, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Sawyer, the bride's sister, rendered the musical program. Palms and ferns and three-branched candelabra holding white tapers formed the altar.

Ushers were Quinton Ivie, Erford Ivie and Paul Henderson and groomsmen included Harold Arwood, Raymond A. Berry and Augustus Henderson, brother of the groom. Misses Lillian Mae Weatherly, Jeannette Brooks and Mrs. C. W. Ivie were bridesmaids, and Mrs. A. B. King was matron of honor.

The attendants were gowned alike in princess style models of net in rainbow colors made over matching shades of tulle, and carried bouquets of Briardill roses and anemones tied with satin ribbons to match their gowns.

Little Jean Norris was flower girl and James E. Ivie, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. The flower girl wore a frock of pink silk made with ruffles and carried a plaque of pastel-shaded sweet peas.

The bride entered with her father, James E. Ivie, by whom she was given in marriage, and met the groom and his best man, C. C. Myrick Jr., at the altar.

The radiantly lovely bride wore a gown of eggshell satin made with a high neckline. The long tight sleeves, trimmed with insets of lace from the shoulders, ended in points over the wrists. The skirt was molded close to the figure to the knees and flared into fullness and ended in a short train. Her net veil featured a cap of lace caught at the back of the head with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and swainsons showered with valley lilies.

Mr. Henderson and his bride left by motor for a trip to the mountains. The bride traveled in a one-piece model of navy blue cotton worn with a white linen jacket, a white felt hat and white accessories. Upon their return they will reside with the groom's mother, Mrs. Elfa Henderson, on Rankin street.

Author Plays Golf in Spare Time And Likes To Collect Mule Shoes

MRS. MINNIE HITE MOODY.

By BELLE MEADOR.

Years ago, a little girl in grammar school seriously looked at her math teacher and stated "There's not a bit of use in my studying arithmetic, I'm going to be a writer, anyway." Although it was not realized at the time, the statement was absolutely true, and the little girl is none other than Mrs. Minnie Hite Moody, whose book "Death Is a Little Man," was released last week.

Mrs. Moody's career was more or less forced upon her, for though she had never particularly desired to write, it seemed the easiest thing for her to do. In grammar school she wrote a large part of the themes, which were handed in by members of the class, in return for their assistance in doing her arithmetic home work. She admits that, perhaps, she should have worked harder on the math herself, for often she needs her husband's assistance in arranging monetary matters.

The title of her book, "Death Is a Little Man," which has aroused quite a bit of curiosity in the minds of those interested in the book, was suggested by the song of old Lucy, a darky, who served her family at one time. Lucy's off-sung song was familiar to many negroes and an especial favorite of the race. The name of it is "Lord, Remember Me," and one of the verses stuck in Mrs. Moody's mind from early childhood. It was:

"Oh Death! he is a little man
And he goes from do' to do';
He kill some souls and he wounded some
And he let some souls to go."

Mrs. Moody's husband, W. O. Moody, was born in Central Africa, where his parents were widely known missionaries, and his wife always has been interested in research work concerning the connection of southern negro dialect and the African Bantu language. She confessed that she has always hated books written in dialect, but the central theme of her new book just "hit her," and she simply had to write it. There was no way of getting around it, she said, so the book which she had already written mentally, was put upon paper in the short space of 62 days. The formulation of the idea had simmered in her mind for 10 or 15 years.

The author's home is tastefully furnished for comfort, and desks, books, and all the things which go hand in hand with writing ability are in evidence, especially in her study. But her personality and charm completely overshadow the appointments of her residence. She has a wide and ready sense of humor, and is possessed of the gracious and ready ability of putting visitors completely at their ease.

She has two charming daughters, both of whom are enrolled at Girls' High school, and she devotes a large part of her time to them.

Aside from writing and her home life, one of her chief hobbies is golf. "I've been so busy lately, though," she declared, "that I've practically had to give up everything except my work." When asked what score she usually makes, she laughed and answered quite emphatically "You're not going to put that in the paper!" Incidentally, one of her popular stories, which appeared in the Vanity Fair magazine, was written with East Lake Golf Course providing the setting. It was entitled "Nightshade," and won quite a bit of attention.

Aside from her first novel with the middle west for a setting, Mrs. Moody has written many short stories and articles. One of the stories, "College Widow," which appeared in Vanity Fair, won the first prize awarded by the American Pen Women for the best short story of the year.

Strange to relate, Mrs. Moody collects mule shoes, and carries them in her manuscript portfolio. Incidentally, mule shoes are much smaller than horse shoes and are different in shape. She has found four since her arrival in Atlanta, and laughingly states that all she needs now is the mule. It amuses her for people carrying the bag to think that the mule-shoe-laden manuscript is "heavy literature."

Her book, "Death Is a Little Man," has Atlanta for a setting, the characters are drawn from Atlanta negroes, and Mrs. Moody is proud of the fact that she is an Atlanta woman. Burton Rascoe acclaims the book as "a distinguished piece of work," Dorothy Canfield Fisher approves it as "sound, touching, and true interpretation of negro life and temperament," and William Rose Benet says that Mrs. Moody has written "an entirely authentic story, which I found both dramatic and moving." It is natural that the book should have an atmosphere of its own, when one considers the graciousness and personality of the author.

'YOUR FIGURE, MADAME!'

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

EXERCISE TO KEEP IN FORM.

Perfect weight may be far from streamlined. The waistline can migrate and hips become hopeless even with the scales balanced in your favor, and there are figures that need to be slimmer, not thinner.

Su bcutaneous tissue determines body condition as well as the form weight takes, and a soft, toneless muscles underlie blurred outlines. With flabby muscles, regardless of weight, exercise is needed. Exercise is a normalizing medium. IDA JEAN KAIN. malizing builds, reduces or redistributes weight, according to the needs of the

The same exercise can help to evolve entirely different results. A fat person, a skinny person and a normal weight may all take the same exercise and, other factors being equalized, the overweight will lose in the right place, the underweight will round out curves, and the normal weight will more perfectly distribute her pounds. Everyone benefits from exercise.

You may have all the possibilities of loveliness, but with toneless muscles your figure looks dumpty. Not only that, you can acquire a very bad figure in a comparatively short time through failure to use these figure-controlling muscles.

As you settle down, you discontinue the active sports of youth which kept your circulation up and going and your muscles in tone. Exercise must be planned to take the place of sports if you are to keep your figure from growing old in the middle, for the waist in the first place to take on adipose tissue. A snug waistband means that stretching exercises are in order. There may be some excuse for large hips, since they are hard to discipline in this sedentary age, but there is no excuse whatever for a dumpty waistline. With systematic stretching, you can take an inch off your waist measurement in two weeks' time.

Try this waistline twister:

Position: Stand in correct position, abdomen and chest up, arms held outstretched overhead.

Movement: Twist at the waist to the right; now, holding the twist, bend to the left side and back. Twist to the left, and bend to the right. Twist only at the waistline. Repeat 10, later 20 times. When you first start to exercise, your waist muscles will be stiff and your movement limited. Keep right on stretching. Practice will increase suppleness, and will diminish your waistline. It's the best way in the world to remove that stodgy feeling.

Hips are more difficult to discipline than waistlines, but persistent exercise will eventually wear away the extra inches. The following exercise is well worth your effort.

Position: Standing, hand on chair-back for support.

Movement: Raise leg to right angle in front of body. Holding the leg as high as possible, circle around to form right angle at back. Without lowering leg, circle back to front and repeat five times before touching floor, perform with other leg.

Consistent exercise will keep you in good form.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, Tuesday.—We are all deeply grieved over the death of a young cousin who roomed with our boy, Franklin Jr., in his first years at college, and who then went off to the Argentine. That anyone so young should be so unhappy is sad, and one can only hope that an all-wise Providence may understand the sorrows of a youthful heart.

This morning after a very early ride, I visited the exhibitions which have been brought over by the foreign delegates, as well as those brought by our own delegates from the various states for the rural women's meeting.

England, from her far-flung empire, has collected an extraordinary variety of beautiful things made with greatest skill. I never realized before that Honiton made such beautiful lace. I understand the skill has almost died out, but is now being revived among the women. The knitting patterns are fascinating.

Some of our own exhibitions showed a return to household arts of bygone days, and a hand skill together with training in design and color, which is vastly encouraging. In the English exhibit there are some photographs of rooms entirely furnished by women. Even the furniture is made by women.

This is closely paralleled in a Nassau county, New York state, exhibit, where, except for a few things made by Youth Administration boys, everything in the room is refinished, upholstered and made by women, even to the back drop which was painted by a farm woman at 11 o'clock one night by the lights of her car. The material was tacked on the barn door so that they might have a rural scene to hang outside of their make-believe window here.

Mrs. Morgenthau, Mrs. Genevieve Forbes Herrick, Mrs. Scheider and I lunched on the south porch at 12:45. At 1:30 the foreign delegates and some of the officers of the International Associated Rural Women of the World came over to be shown the White House.

Mrs. Morgenthau and Mrs. Wallace helped me by going around with us and telling those who could not hear me about the various rooms. We visited everything, including the kitchen, and I said goodbye to them at 2:30 with great regret, for they were an appreciative audience.

Far more of the costly ingredients—different from all other salad dressings

I SIMPLY CAN'T BELIEVE IT! I'VE TRIED DOZENS OF SALAD DRESSINGS AND THEY JUST CAN'T TOUCH HOMEMADE.

WHY YOU'RE RIGHT! I ACTUALLY DO LIKE IT BETTER THAN ANY DRESSING I HAVE EVER TASTED.

THAT'S MIRACLE WHIP SALAD DRESSING, MY DEAR.

WAIT AND SEE. THIS IS SOMETHING NEW... UTTERLY DIFFERENT.

Millions prefer this wonderful new type of dressing

FINER INGREDIENTS... a special recipe

In many salad dressings offered for sale today the costly ingredients are deliberately skimmed. Some contain even less of these choice ingredients than the bare minimum standard that was approved by the government.

The special Miracle Whip recipe, on the other hand, calls for an abundance of these costly ingredients. Miracle Whip is a skillful cross between mayonnaise and old-fashioned boiled dressing—a wholly new kind of salad dressing that millions prefer to any other kind of dressing. Miracle Whip Salad Dressing is very moderately priced. But it naturally costs a little more than the many so-called salad dressings made primarily to sell at a low price.

• Perhaps you don't believe it—if you've never tasted Miracle Whip. But there is no doubt whatever about the facts. Millions, literally millions, of women have had the same experience.

They had been completely "sold" on one special kind of dressing... in some cases, homemade; in others, a favorite brand they bought.

But ask them today, and they'll tell you they prefer Miracle Whip to any other dressing they have ever tasted! Miracle Whip simply cannot be judged by other salad dressings, least of all by ordinary commercial mixtures. It is different... totally different.

To make this famous dressing with its tantalizing flavor, Kraft created a new type of recipe—a special blend of mayonnaise and old-fashioned boiled dressing. Miracle Whip contains far more of the costly ingredients that make the difference between fine and ordinary salad dressings.

Miracle Whip is very moderately priced. Yet we believe that you, like millions of others, will prefer it to all other dressings. Tomorrow, ask your dealer for a jar!

THE WORLD'S LARGEST-SELLING SALAD DRESSING Because of its tantalizing flavor Miracle Whip today outsells the next 20 salad dressings combined.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO ATLANTA women— Miracle Whip is made right in this city in Kraft's own spic-and-pan tiled kitchen!

--: SAN FRANCISCO --:

By LEBBEUS MITCHELL

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Mary Blake, young singer out of work, just escaped from a burning hotel, is promised a job as singer by Blackie Norton, proprietor of the Paradise Music Hall in the Barbary Coast section of San Francisco. Blackie and some friends who want to run him for alderman, arrive as she is rehearsing "San Francisco" slowly, as it was written. He tells her to "heat it up"—he's not running a funeral parlor, she says. She can't sing it that way. "That's the way you'll sing it—no you don't sing for me, says Blackie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT III

Mary came into the box, diffident but excited. Burley thanked her for the privilege of hearing her sing and of meeting her, and presented Signor Baldini. The latter kissed her hand, under Blackie's cold and criticizing glance. Burley, never taking his eyes from her, asked her to sit down at their table and order Cordon Rouge, '64, champagne.

"Hearing a voice like yours in a variety theater, Miss Blake, has been a real experience," said Signor Baldini.

"Thank you, but you might have heard me in better surroundings, Signor. I sat in your office at the Trivoli once—for six days."

Burley laughed. "I'll see that the board of directors hear of that, Baldini! ... So, Miss Blake, you want to sing in opera?"

"That's why I came to San Francisco," Baldini suggested her voice showed the result of training, and Mary became more excited. She hurried on. "From the best teacher in Denver! I led the Bach Choral Society, and won first prize in the Schubert festival, and I've learned Marguerite and Mimi and Violetta and Puccini's Butterfly."

"There's no law against an opera singer being young and slender and beautiful," said Burley, his eyes running over Mary's figure. "While Blackie's smile came next being a singer. 'What do you think of giving Miss Blake an audition, Baldini?'"

"I think by all means, yes," said Blackie. "There's a little matter of a two-year contract between Miss Blake and me." He enjoyed their dismay. "I'll have her send you word when it runs out."

"But, surely," urged Burley, "you wouldn't let that stand in Miss Blake's way of a chance at opera?"

"Why wouldn't I?" Blackie was very smug, enjoying their discomfort.

"Even if she's capable of stepping into the Trivoli as a star?"

"She's doing all right here."

Burley gave him a long, contemptuous glance, shrugged. "Too bad!" he said to Mary.

"Mr. Norton is right," she said, barely keeping back tears of despair.

pointment. "The Paradise is just as important to him as the Trivoli is to you. What would happen if you followed your artists to walk out on time they wished?" Blackie gave her a sharp look, and smiled smugly. Baldini, having had experience with artistic temperament, admired her attitude.

"You are very loyal, Miss Blake."

"I'm very grateful to Mr. Norton," Burley picked up a glass of the champagne the waiter had poured. "Here's to Opportunity, Miss Blake. I hope it hasn't knocked for the last time."

"Thanks," Mary choked back her disappointment as she drank the toast. "I'm afraid I'll have to go. We don't have much time between numbers. Goodbye, Signor Baldini. You've made this the happiest night of my life."

"Thank you, my dear." The impresario kissed her hand.

"Good night," he said. "I haven't given up yet—about the Trivoli."

"You don't know Mr. Norton," she said, struggling for a smile. "You don't know me!" He raised her hand gallantly, flooding her with his charm of manner, and kissed it.

Mary turned to leave but was called back by Blackie. "Now that you've made your impression, Miss Blake, don't do it again. I don't like those things." He put brutal sarcasm into his voice. He looked at his watch and she again started to leave. "No, don't do it again. I want you to hurry over there and tear off a little number for him."

"Yes," she agreed listlessly. "Where is it?"

"Saint Anne's Mission—just around the corner. Ask for Father Mullin. Get going; you've got a number to do here at 10:30."

Of the three men who watched Mary Blake as she left the box to go to St. Anne's Mission, Signor Baldini was the only disappointed one, and the only one who understood her quickly disappointed hope and her loyalty to the man who had given her a job. Blackie and Burley were interested in Mary as she left, but Blackie made no attempt to hide the sarcasm in his voice.

"So, you don't want me to run for alderman, Burley?"

"You know as well as I, Norton, that it isn't practical to rebuild the coast. People come here slumming because it is picturesque. They don't want to feel they are in a spotless town."

"That isn't your reason," interposed Blackie. "Oh, one of 'em, yeah—but the main one is that you don't want to spend your dough on make your property down here safe."

"If I did what you want it would be a calamity for the coast. The Burley estate has to get a certain interest on its investment. I'd have to raise rents. You boys couldn't live. You'd be forced to charge 10 cents a glass for beer."

"I don't quite get him, Baldini," said Blackie, half seriously, half mockingly. "He loses a fortune every year into the Trivoli Opera house."

Baldini shrugged smilingly, but Burley responded. "That's not business. That's for Frisco."

"The coast is Frisco, too!"

"That's why I wouldn't change it!"

"Well, Burley," Blackie spoke coolly, dispassionately, "these little mugs down here are my people, and I'm going to see that they get a square deal. I'm not pulling out of this fight."

Burley shrugged. "All right, Norton. I didn't want a fight. You ask for it."

"Go ahead," they parted politely enough, and Blackie answered the phone call that Baldie had been hovering anxiously in the rear of the box to tell him about. It was Father Mullin, calling up to thank him for sending Mary over to sing at the mission, and inviting him to go over for the organ recital and to hear Mary sing.

"She'll be coming back here to sing the things I like," he assured his clerical friend, and hung up.

At the mission, the religious service had been concluded. The church was crowded with devotees from the Barbary coast. Mary Blake, her stage costume covered by a long cape, stood by the organ, awaiting the return of Father Mullin and his signal to start. He came back from telephoning and nodded to the organist to go ahead with the musical program which he was in the habit of offering to those who cared to remain after the service.

The song was "In a Monastery Garden," and as Mary's clear, sweet, soprano voice sang the melody, her face was transformed into the spiritual mood of the music. Father Mullin studied her face, impressed alike by her trained voice and by the transfiguration of her features as she sang. After he had nodded with the audience, speaking kindly and encouragingly to the down-and-outers, old men, old women, a sprinkling of tough youths and painted girls, he detected Mary when she went to him to say good night. "It was nice of you, Miss Blake, to leave your work to come to our rescue."

"How are you making out at the Paradise?"

She replied evasively, not wishing to reveal his distaste for the job: "Why—I've only just started."

"How do you like Blackie?"

She could answer that frankly. "I'm afraid of him."

She looked at him sharply when he said "I've only just started." "He's as unscrupulous with women as he is ruthless with men."

"I don't understand him, Father Mullin. Why did he send me here?"

The priest smiled. "You probably understand him a whole lot better than he understands you. You see, I don't believe Blackie ever knew your kind of woman before. Sure, you are not afraid of him unless you are afraid of yourself. Are you?"

It was a new wig, and Mary thought it over a moment. "No, I guess I'm just a little bit dazed. You see, I've been in San Francisco for six weeks and nothing has happened at all. Then, in the past 24 hours, the whole world went topsy-turvy. I feel like running home."

"If you are afraid, you'd better run home. There was friendly encouragement in his twinkling eyes. "How about it?"

"I'm going to stay," she said with a determined smile.

"That's right," he approved. "You are probably in the wickedest, most corrupt, most Godless city in America. Sometimes it frightens me and I wonder what the end is going to be. But nothing can harm you if you don't allow it to. Because nothing in the world—no one in the world—is all at the door of the common ragweed, whose dry pollen is blown about by the wind at the same season. The heavy, sticky pollen of the goldenrod is carried chiefly by insects, such as bees. It is time to start saving our goldenrod and to center our attack upon the ragweed."

GOLDENROD DOES NOT CAUSE HAY FEVER

The goldenrod, one of the most beautiful of our autumn flowers, has suffered from a very untruthful accusation—that it is the cause of considerable hay fever throughout the country. Recent scientific studies have cleared this lovely flower of all suspicion, and the real cause of hay fever, whose dry pollen is blown about by the wind at the same season. The heavy, sticky pollen of the goldenrod is carried chiefly by insects, such as bees. It is time to start saving our goldenrod and to center our attack upon the ragweed.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

STORY OF SUNLIGHT PICTURES.

IV—Better Pictures.

Soon after news of Daguerre's work came across the Atlantic an American college professor—Dr. J. W. Draper—began to make pictures by the Daguerre method. One of his early subjects was his sister, who covered her face with white powder and sat in the bright sunlight for six minutes while the picture was made. This is the first portrait known to have been made in the new world by use of a camera.

Washing the film for the great picture of Bay of Naples.

To sit still so long was a great task, and most persons did not have their pictures taken in early years of the new art. Those who owned cameras used them chiefly for pictures of trees, houses and other still objects, not often for human beings. We are told that Daguerre, himself, had his picture taken only once.

An English scientist, Sir John Herschel, is given credit for first using the word "photograph." It was made by putting together two Greek words, and it means "light-writing."

Twenty years before Daguerre told the world about his work, Herschel had learned that the rays of light and silver salts. This knowledge proved helpful to another Englishman, Fox Talbot, who spent five years on picture-making before he told the Royal Society of his tests.

Talbot's report was made at almost the same time as that of Daguerre. His method was a different one. Pictures were taken on paper, not on metal plates, and they were the "reverse" of objects photographed. By oiling or waxing the paper, Talbot made "prints" from the "negative" pictures, and the prints were fairly good. The plan used by Talbot was more like that of today than the Daguerreotype method.

Many other men were pioneers in the new art. Professor Petrus von Vienna, Austria, invented a double lens for making portraits. By the use of this lens and of "wet plates" it became possible to take a picture in a few seconds.

As time went on, ways were found to make large prints from small negatives. Among the famous enlarged photographs which have been made is a "panoramic view" of the Bay of Naples. The print was enlarged from six negatives, and measured five feet wide and 40 feet long.
